Singur bites back, Didi ordered to pay Tata not-so-Nano relief

WB industrial development corpn told to cough up ₹766 crore as compensation

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

TATA Motors on Monday said it has won an arbitral award of ₹766 crore plus interest from the West Bengal Industrial Development Corporation (WBDIC) to compensate for its investment in the now-scrapped Nano project in Singur.

According to a regulatory filing by Tata Motors, a three-member arbitral tribunal unanimously held that the carmaker is entitled to recover ₹765.8 crore, along with interest at 11% per annum from September 1, 2016 till actual recovery thereof from WBIDC.

However, the ruling Trinamool Congress in West Bengal downplayed it, stressing legal avenues are open before the state government. "This is not a final verdict or a verdict by the Supreme Court. This is a ruling by an arbitral tribunal. It doesn't mean this is the end of the road for the state government. Legal avenues are still open for the state government," PTI quoted senior TMC MP Saugata Roy as saying.

One of the most controversial projects of the past two decades, the announcement and withdrawal of a Tata Motors' plant in Singur led to political uproar in Bengal. It arguably played an important role in marking the end of the Left Front government in the state it ruled for seven consecutive terms.

The then Tata Group boss Ratan Tata and Chief Minister Buddhadeb Bhattacharjee had in 2006 announced the facility in Singur to manufacture the affordable car — Nano. However, it faced flak from local farmers who claimed that they were being forced to give up their land for the project.

Mamata Banerjee, the then opposition leader, joined the farmers and played a pivotal role in forcing Tata Motors to suspend work at the plant in September 2008, a month before the scheduled rollout of Nano from there. Tata Motors was forced to relocate its plant to Gujarat.

LEASE DEED

After Mamata came to power, she announced an ordinance to take back land leased to Tata. The lease agreement had a clause that said if the acquisition was deemed illegal, the state would underwrite the company for the cost. This case was then referred for arbitration

Delhi govt's excise policy to grant licences to liquor traders allowed cartelisation and favoured certain dealers who paid bribes, the ED said

ED summons Kejri in excise scam after Sisodia denied bail

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

THE Enforcement Directorate on Monday summoned Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal for questioning in the alleged liquor policy scam case in Delhi.

Kejriwal has been told to appear before the agency on November 2.

The ED is investigating the money laundering aspect of the case in which two AAP leaders — Manish Sisodia and Sanjay Singh — are already in jail.

The ED's notice to Kejriwal came hours after the Supreme Court rejected the bail plea of Sisodia, saying the accusation of "windfall gains" of ₹338 crore to wholesale liquor dealers was "tentatively supported" by evidence.

According to an official source, Kejriwal has been summoned under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) to record his statements in the ongoing investigation.

The agency will move further in the case after recording the statement of Kejriwal, said a source, adding that the CM's statements will also be correlated with those of the other accused.

Kejriwal's name figured many times in the chargesheets in the case. These references pointed out that the accused were in touch with Kejriwal on the now-withdrawn Delhi excise policy 2021-22.

Last April, the CBI had summoned the Delhi chief minister for questioning in connection with the same case.

BJP bid to finish AAP: Bhardwaj

AAP's Saurabh Bhardwaj alleged that the BJP govt wants to finish AAP by resorting to such tactics before the polls. "They are leaving no stone unturned to frame Kejriwal, send him to jail and finish AAP," he said

TRAIN ACCIDENT

RAILWAYS FAULTS RAYAGADA TRAIN DRIVER, ASSISTANT

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

THE driver and the assistant driver of the ill-fated Rayagada passenger train were prima-facie responsible for the Sunday evening accident in Andhra Pradesh, the initial probe by the Indian Railways has found. The driver of the train was killed in the mishap.

A senior railway official said the Rayagada passenger train overshot two defective signals at danger marks and hit the Visakhapatnam Palasa train from behind, killing 13 passengers and injuring dozens of others. This is the third major accident in recent months after those at Balasore (Odisha) and Raghunathpur (Bihar).

Following the accident, the railways formed a team of seven experts to conduct a prime-facie probe into the accident. After careful observation and analysis of technical sequences at the accident site, statements of officials and data loggers, the report found the driver and his assistant of Rayagada train overshot the signals.

Ignoring defective auto signal is a violation of railways' safety norms; trains passing through the line should have stopped for two minutes at the defective auto signals before proceeding at slow speed. The Rayagada passenger train didn't follow this norm, which led to the collision, the report said. P7

First B'luru Kambala to have 155m track, 116 buffalo owners confirm participation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mangaluru

PUTTUR MLA and Bengaluru Kambala Committee president Ashok Kumar Rai on Monday said that 116 Kambala buffalo owners have registered their names to participate in the first-ever Kambala to be held in Bengaluru on November 25 and 26.

Addressing reporters here on Monday, he said over 8 lakh people are expected to witness the event at the Palace Grounds. The committee's aim is to make the two-day Kambala a record-breaking event and it will have the longest 'kare' (slush track) measuring 155 metres instead of the usual 145-metre one. The winner of the race will be given a cash prize of Rs 1.50 lakh.

"The idea behind organising Kambala in Bengaluru is to bring the issues faced by the Tulu-speaking community in the capital city to the notice of the government. Our target is to have at least 125 pairs of buffaloes participating in the event. We will provide Rs 50,000 to each buffalo owner as transport cost. We will set up stalls showcasing the traditional delicacies of Dakshina Kannada," he said.

The name of the Kambala track in Bengaluru will be finalised in a few days. "Proceedings of the Kambala will be spent on a Tulu bhavan in Bengaluru. A proposal to sanction one acre of land for the purpose will be put forth before the government during the event," Rai said.

Actors Rajnikanth, Sunil Shetty, Shilpa Shetty, Yash and Darshan and cricketer KL Rahul will participate in the event. Actor Aishwarya Rai Bachchan is yet to confirm her participation. Actor Anushka Shetty will inaugurate the event, he said.

On the demand to make Tulu as an official language, he said they have written to five departments in this regard and have received "No Objection Certificate" from one of them.

Poll-wary Centre acts to curb rising onion prices

Prices in many states go south, traders believe this relief is temporary; fresh stocks reach APMC yard

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

GOVERNMENTS have collapsed in the past owing to the spike in onion prices. With five states going to polls in a few weeks from now, the union government seems to have taken the matter seriously and has taken several measures to keep onion prices under check.

Consequently, onion prices, which went up from Rs 40 to Rs 60 in the past few days, came down marginally by about Rs 5 on Monday. The onion prices in many states, including those in the south, are now witnessing a downward trend.

But traders believe that this could be a temporary relief. Ravi Balakrishna, a leading wholesale onion trader at the Agriculture Produce Marketing Committee (APMC) Yard in Bengaluru, said the union government's export-related price mechanism is working well now to ensure that the prices of this essential commodity are under check. On Monday, the prices which went up briefly by Rs 2 in the wholesale market to Rs 62, came down to Rs 55 for fresh arrivals. The prices hovered around Rs 60 in the wholesale markets, while in the retail outlets, the prices were reaching Rs 100 to Rs 120.

Prices of any commodity depend on its supply and demand. According to the APMC sources, around 400 trucks carrying 80,592 bags of onions have arrived at the Yeshwanthpur APMC Yard. The sub-market at Dasanapura received 2,310 bags on Monday.

This means, while the union government has slammed the brakes on the increasing onion prices, the new arrivals will now decide the prices. If there is a dip in the quantity of arrivals, then the prices will go up. Bengaluru received 52,000 bags on Wednesday. On Thursday, it dropped to 46,000 bags. On Friday, the city received 70,700 bags and on Saturday, the supply fell to 63,000 bags, the sources said. November 1 (Rajyotsava) is a holiday. Tuesday's arrivals would be important. If the quantity is more, then the prices may go down further.

Asked if the measures introduced by the union government will help bring down the onion prices, FKCCI president Ramesh Chandra Lahoti said, ₹₹One can't say one-time measures will help bring the prices down. It needs weekly monitoring and the state and union governments should work in tandem. Everyone knows that drought has affected the onion crop in Karnataka. A proactive way is to look for states that have surplus onion production and to work with them to ensure adequate supply to curb the increasing prices. This has to be done on a weekly basis as in the case of foodgrains and pulses."

Nitul J Shah, a wholesale trader at APMC, said,₹₹Till a reliable source to supply onions is identified, the prices will continue to go up. If there is a good onion crop in Maharashtra in about a month, the prices could stabilise. Karnataka is among the largest onion suppliers in India. But the drought affected the crop output, leading to this problem. Similarly, garlic prices, which were between Rs 50 and Rs 110, have gone up to Rs 160 because of the crop failure in Karnataka. Steps should be taken to ensure adequate supply of onions to the state."

Polluted water supply: HAL residents fume at BWSSB

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

DOZENS of residents at Annasandrapalya in HAL BBMP ward, have complained that the water coming from Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB) tap is emitting a foul smell, and suspect that the sewage water is getting mixed. Officials suspect that seepage from clogged pits may be running into water pipes.

Priscilla Jacob, a resident of the locality and AAP party worker said that the sump at her house gets polluted regularly, due to BWSSB releasing dirty water. "Last week, I had to empty about 6,000 litres of water to clean my sump, and then hire a water tanker. Again on Monday, the BWSSB tap had contaminated water. The water coming from the BWSSB tap is coloured and stinks. We had to close the tap," she said.

H Allabakash, a retired employee of a private firm said, there is already water scarcity and irregular water supply. To top it all, if polluted water is released in taps, residents will be forced to buy water from tankers.

"When water supply starts, we get polluted water for the first 20-30 minutes. Hence we close the tap and turn them on again, after clean water starts flowing and fill our tanks. We suspect that there could be a damage to underground sewage and water pipes. Officials should address the concern at the earliest," said Allabakash.

BWSSB Assistant Executive Engineer, Mohammed Mudassir, who visited the spot, assured the residents of taking steps to rectify the problem soon. "There could be seepage due to a clogged sewage pit at upstream of Annasandrapalya. The staff suspects that there could be a damage to the pipes and hence polluted water is getting mixed with drinking water line. I am attending to the issue and will resolve it at the earliest."

BWSSB files plaint against illegal borewell in Sai Serenity

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

FOLLOWING a report on the alleged illegal construction at Sai Serenity Layout of Basavanapura ward in KR Puram polluting Yele Mallappa Shetty lake, the Bangalore Water Supply and Sewage Authority (BWSSB) conducted an inspection and registered a complaint against a supervisor who was drilling a borewell, and the owner.

In its October 30 edition, TNIE had carried a story headlined 'Illegal flats crop up in Sai Serenity Layout, release sewage into lake'. Acting on the report, BWSSB initiated action. BWSSB

Assistant Executive Engineer (AEE), KR Puram, Lokesh said there have been complaints about people drilling illegal borewells and also letting sewage into the lake, hence an inspection was conducted. The borewell work, which was happening on second cross of Godavari-Ganga block in the 30-plus acre layout, was stopped as no permission was taken and a complaint was lodged with Avalahalli police against the owner and supervisor.

"It is up to the police to take necessary action like either seizing the borewell drilling vehicle (KA-55-A-0035 and KA-01- MT-1575) or filing cases against the owner and supervisor for drilling a borewell without permission," the AEE said. A senior police officer said whichever clause is applicable will be invoked, and a case filed.

Speaking to TNIE, Uday Prakash Reddy, site supervisor at the private building where the borewell was being drilled, said, "I am not aware of any Ground Water Authority or necessary permissions to drill. We just take up building projects and move on," he said.

Meanwhile, HAL ward AEE Mohammed Mudassir has given a complaint to the Ground Water Authority as a borewell was being drilled at Talacauvery Layout next to Vibhutipura Lake. The official said a complaint will also be given to HAL police station for action.

Rlys yet to release land, suburban project stuck

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE South Western Railway Zone is yet to provide 194 acres of land required to build the Bengaluru Suburban Railway Project's (BSRP) 48-km stretch between Rajanakunte and Heelalige (Corridor-4), for which tenders had been called. The delay by the Railways is the reason why the tender was not awarded to the lowest bidder, said multiple sources.

Gaurav Gupta, Additional Chief Secretary, Infrastructure Development Department, on Monday, chaired a meeting to take stock of the status of this corridor as well as the 25.57-km Corridor-2 between Baiyapapanahalli and Chikkabanavar, the only stretch of the project where work has commenced.

It has come to light that the Railway Board had on Oct 27 written to the General Manager of SWR asking him to expedite the process of handing over the land to K-RIDE, the nodal agency to implement the project. It pointed out that K-RIDE had already submitted a proposal for 194.07 acres of railway land to the Zonal Railway. "The Letter of Authorisation of contract for Corridor-4 is not being issued by K-RIDE due to unavailability of the required land," read the letter sent by AF Ahmad, Director, Gati Shakti, Railway Board.

Larson & Toubro Ltd emerged as the lowest bidder.

A senior K-RIDE official told TNIE, "Almost 85 per cent of the land for the project should come from the Railways. They are yet to hand it over to us. Of the remaining 15 percent of private land needed, the Karnataka Industrial Areas Development Board is about to complete the acquisition of half of it and the rest needs to be acquired."

Another official said there is no point in awarding the contract to a bidder and not giving them the land required to carry out work. "For Corridor-2 where work has commenced now, Railways had handed over land only in January this year," he pointed out.

The 148.17km BSRP project with four corridors has a 2026 deadline.

SEP panel's maiden meeting on Nov 2

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THE 15-member committee formed by the state government to draft the State Education Policy (SEP) will hold its maiden meeting on Nov 2.

Sources in the Education Department told TNIE that on November 3, a meeting of the eight-member committee of experts/advisors will be held.

"One of the prime agendas of the meeting is to set up subcommittees with members from primary and higher education departments. This is because no government officials have been appointed as members of the committees. The terms and conditions of the sub-committees will be discussed. The task of each committee is yet to be decided," the sources said. The subcommittees to be formed will be given deadlines to prepare and submit reports. The committee members will also discuss the tasks of the State Education Policy Commission.

The sources said finalisation of introduction to SEP and terms of reference will take time. It is only after which the chapters will be added to SEP. Whether each committee member will be asked to handle a subject, like in the National Education Policy (NEP), is yet to be decided.

On October 11, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah issued an order for formation of the committee with Prof Sukhdev Thorat as its chairman. The order listed 15 eminent personalities as part of the committee. It stated that Dr Bhagyavana S Mudigoudra, special officer, Department of Higher Education, has been appointed as member-secretary.

5 teams deployed to capture leopard

BENGALURU: Three days after a leopard was sighted at AECS Layout in Singasandra, forest officials have deployed five teams to capture it. On Monday, four cages were kept at strategic locations to capture the elusive leopard. According to forest officials, the CCTV cameras recorded the leopard roaming near an apartment complex on October 27 night. The leopard has not been sighted since then.

"It is only the CCTV footage that we have. The teams have been deployed in the area spread across 10 acres of abandoned land," said Lingaraju, Chief Conservator of Forests, Bengaluru. He said the spot where the leopard was sighted is around 8km from Bannerghatta National Park. It is possible that the leopard strayed in search of prey, and might have returned after that. The forest officials have warned people living at AECS Layout in Singasandra not to venture out at night and dial 1926 in case of any emergency. ENS

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

31ST October: I'm always being asked how on earth planets so far away, like Neptune, can possibly exert an influence on us. The answer is quite subtle. Astrology is all about identifying and analysing patterns, while examining our part in the greater scheme of things. And that's why astrologers emphasise it's what we do that really matters, not what happens to us.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Does it sound too trite to say that life could be one long party? Well, a rapidly approaching series of aspects between the Sun and the Moon offers you sufficient incentive to put your cares to one side for a while, enjoy yourself and maybe go on a spending spree.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
The delicate relationship between Mars and Saturn is pretty well perfect as far as you are concerned, even if it is a little dour - and if you only have a limited time to exploit your advantages. This is an extraordinary week to combine all that is most noble about your character, with all that is most imaginative.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Admittedly you've had a financial shock, but one that is by no means threatening to your overall position. Stay one step ahead of the stars and move as quickly as possible to a secure fail-safe position. Relief comes within days, mainly thanks to family support.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
The most sensitive among you are already aware that, within two weeks, an extravagant, though fortuitous, development will have shaken the foundations of your family life. Do the wise thing and seize the moral high ground now. Don't let other people put you off.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
The silver lining in this week's dark cloud is reflected in the very sober prospect that your past efforts are about to be rewarded. To be precise, many of you may shortly expect an increase in your earnings. But it could be another nine weeks before everything is finalised.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You may now be worried that something ominous is about to happen. But what? Don't be unduly concerned, though. All that's taking place is an increase of pressure in mysterious regions of your chart. It's as if, no matter what you do, you just can't figure out the answer.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Romantic and emotional secrets will shortly be coming into the open. You will be happy to hear that someone's opinion of you is higher than you once thought, but please see to it that your conscience is clear. Just because other people are behaving badly doesn't mean that you have to follow suit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Because the Sun is due to enter into combat with the Moon before it next changes signs, you must be prepared for a professional crisis. The most reasonable estimate tips you as odds-on favourite, but only if you safeguard your privacy and cover every possible source of discontent at home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You don't usually pay too much attention to other people's tedious bickering and barracking. And quite right, too! However, some sort of legal problem or overseas complication may come to involve you, unless you indulge in some of your fast and fancy footwork.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Although an unusual amount of planetary activity in and around your sign is now encouraging you to become more reckless, you must take extreme care in the financial sphere. Events are likely to move so fast over the coming days that you are in danger of being left temporarily high and dry.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
More than ever it is time to put your money where your mouth is. You might as well face the fact that a dramatic gesture now is likely to head off any bitterness and resentment that may be directed at you, however unfairly, over the coming days and weeks.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
By all means wait another few days, if important new projects are in the pipeline. On the other hand, if you're contemplating measures to reinforce your physical well-being, you should press ahead as fast as you can. There is no reason why you should back down, now.

THE Karnataka High Court on Monday stayed further proceedings against actor and BJP Rajya Sabha member Jaggesh on the notice issued by the forest department against him for allegedly possessing a tiger claw pendant, under the provisions of the Wildlife (Protection) Act.

Justice M Nagaprasanna passed the interim order of stay for four weeks and adjourned the hearing to November 29. Prima facie, the action taken appears to be contrary to law unless it is justified by the state by its objections, or otherwise, the judge observed. The matter requires consideration on the legal score, as contended by the petitioner's counsel, he added.

Hearing the arguments of senior counsel Prabhuling K Navadagi, representing the petitioner, and Additional State Public Prosecutor (ASPP) BN Jagadeesh, the court questioned the forest department as to how the search was conducted immediately after serving a notice on the petitioner without giving him an opportunity to provide an explanation.

Jaggesh's counsel argued that searching for a tiger claw, the state has unleashed claws of power under the Wildlife (Protection) Act in an illegal manner.

On an assumption that the petitioner was in possession of a part of a wild animal, endangered, he was issued a notice on October 25. Just 60 minutes after issuing the notice, the petitioner's house was searched. The very action initiated against the petitioner invoking Section 50 of the Act is erroneous, he argued.

Mortal hurry

The court orally asked the ASPP, "Having issued a notice directing to surrender the part of a wild animal if any, failing which, action would be taken under the Act, you have to keep quiet. What is the mortal hurry? Once you issued a notice, you could not have barged into the house. It appears the search was conducted for publicity..."

The ASPP submitted that the raid was conducted after they received information that the petitioner wanted to tamper with the evidence and he wanted to surrender a fake tiger claw pendant. In terms of Section 39 of the Act, if such material is in possession of any person, it would be illegal and consequently become a government property. They were entitled to search and seize without issuing any notice.

The seized material is sent to the Forensic Science Laboratory and the Directorate of Wildlife Institute of India and if the report comes against the petitioner, the action could be justified and if it comes against the state, there is no offence committed, he argued.

SHAH QADRI SUMMONED FOR INQUIRY

CHIKKAMAGALURU: Leopard and deer pelts were found and seized from the residence of Inam Dattatreya Swamy Baba Budan Dargah Shah Qadri by the forest department officials, following a search operation, on Friday. Shah Qadri had been on a visit to Raichur, and the officials of the department were disappointed when he did not turn up even after waiting for him until the evening.
Chikkamagaluru Range Forest Officer Mohan served a notice to Shah Qadri Ghous Mohiuddin, seeking an explanation and related documents on the details of the pelt found in his house. The notice sought his physical presence in the Range Forest Office for further inquiry on November 2. A case has been registered under the Wildlife Conservation Act of 1972 in the RFO.

FARMERS TO GET DROUGHT AND DISEASE-RESISTANT SEEDS

BENGALURU: The Karnataka government has entered into an agreement with Hyderabad-based International Crop Research Institute (ICRISAT), an international crop-breeding research institute, to distribute new varieties of drought and disease-resistant seeds to farmers. "During the three-year agreement, drought and disease-resistant cultivars will be introduced on a fast-track basis to benefit farmers in Karnataka, which in turn will help increase the average productivity of these crops in the state," a press release stated. The agreement will facilitate the introduction of new improved varieties in sorghum, groundnut, chickpea, pigeon pea, bajra, and minor millet for farmers. An MoU was signed between Karnataka State Seed Corporation Limited and ICRISAT. An agriculture department media release stated that ICRISAT has been developing and introducing new varieties for farmers who work in semi-arid climates through new crop improvement technologies.

TALKS ON MEKEDATU JINXED, NO CONSENSUS AMONG STATES

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

UNION Jal Shakti Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat on Monday hit out at Chief Minister Siddaramaiah for accusing the Centre of being averse to development works in the state, including irrigation projects.

"We know it is tradition for Congress to spread false rumours and misinformation. But it isn't becoming of a CM to wreak havoc in people's lives by doing so. You are very well aware of the status of the Mekedatu project -- if not, let us remind you, since your briefing team seems to be doing a sorry job," the minister said.

The discussion on the DPR of the Mekedatu project was included on the agenda during various meetings of CWMA, but the discussion could not take place due to lack of consensus among party states.

"The DPRs of Kalasa and Bhandura scheme Nala have already been approved by the Central Water Commission (CWC) with certain conditions, and this has been communicated to the government of Karnataka," Shekhawat stated.

The minister said of the five projects from Karnataka prioritised under Pradhan Mantri Krishi Sinchayee Yojana (PMKSY) -- Accelerated Irrigation Benefits Programme during 2017-17, three are completed. Two are ongoing & Rs 1190.05 crore of the of Rs 1238.30 crore of Central assistance has already been released to date. Under Atal Bhujal Yojana, Karnataka has already received Rs 629.54 crore from the Centre but spent only Rs 274.05 crore as of October 28," he stated. "What explains this?", he questioned Siddaramaiah.

The Union minister was responding to the CM's allegations that the Union government hasn't addressed Karnataka's water issues, despite rainfall deficit. Projects like Mekedatu and Mahadayi are pending for the Centre's approval. The state's initiative, Upper Krishna Project for North Karnataka's irrigation, awaits gazette notification and national status from the Centre, the CM had stated.

On Monday, the CM continued his tirade against the Centre, questioning, "Where is the Rs 18,000 crore fund for Bengaluru Suburban Rail Project, as promised in the 2018-19 Union government budget?"

BJP MP from Bengaluru South Tejasvi Surya hit back at the CM. "Sir, you are the Chief Minister of Karnataka. But you have become the Chief Lier of Karnataka. Please find attached the notifications where Central Govt has already released Rs 500 crores for the Bengaluru Suburban Rail Project, whereas GoK hasn't released any funds yet for the year 2023-24. Sri Priyank Kharge's proposed fact check unit will be overburdened fact checking our liar CM," the BJP MP tweeted, with a copy of the GO issued by the Centre.

No Cauvery water with us to release to TN: DKS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE state government is unable to release any water from the Krishna Raja Sagar (KRS) dam to Tamil Nadu as per the directions of the Cauvery Water Regulation Committee (CWRC), said Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, who is also water resources minister, here on Monday.

The CWRC had recommended the state to release 2,600 cusecs of water per day to Tamil Nadu from November 1 to November 15.

Shivakumar expressed helplessness and said there is no water in the Cauvery basin in Karnataka. Inflows into the KRS dam are almost nil. However, 815 cusecs of water flows naturally from Kabini and KRS reservoirs to Tamil Nadu. "At present, we have only 51 tmcft of water which is sufficient only for drinking purposes and we need to save it," he said.

Earlier in the day, Karnataka made its submission before CWRC, requesting it to report to the Cauvery Water Management Authority (CWMA) that Karnataka will not be able to release any water from its reservoirs so as to reach the Biligundlu measuring point, except uncontrolled flows from catchment areas. Tamil Nadu had demanded 13,000 cusecs of water for the next 15 days amounting to 16.9 tmcft of water. CWRC had directed Karnataka to release 2,600 cusecs for 15 days from November 1.

Earlier this month, CWRC had asked the state to release 3,000 cusecs from October 16 to 31. Prior to that, it had recommended the release of 3,000 cusecs to the neighbouring state from October 1 to 15. "We don't have any option, but to pray for God's intervention. All of us can pray to God for good rain which will eventually increase inflows into KRS," he said.

Govt should implement Kantharaj panel report: MLC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

A caste-based census helps uplift backward classes, and will further enable the government to allocate funds, in both Union and state budgets, for the development of these communities, said senior Congress MLC BK Hariprasad on Monday.

"All backward classes need to stay united and get their rights by raising their voice when it comes to reservation. The Kantharaj Commission report has to be implemented at any cost," he said.

After inaugurating an event organised by the Shivamogga Zilla Hindulida Haagu Ati Hindulida Vargagala Jana Jagruti Samiti' at Sarkari Naukarara Bhavana, he claimed that since Independence, only a few upper classes have been availing benefits from projects and schemes of the government.

The nation's democracy stresses on equality and it is time for backward classes to avail government benefits, by ensuring the implementation of the Kantharaj Commission report, Hariprasad added.

The programme focused on pressurising the Karnataka government to implement the report.

FDA exam scam accused in cahoots with state govt: Ashwath Narayana

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

BJP leader and former minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayana here on Monday alleged that the key accused in the Karnataka Examination Authority (KEA) first division assistant selection examination scam, Rudragouda Patil, has committed the crime in connivance with the Congress government in the state.

On some candidates writing the exam using bluetooth devices, he told reporters that RDPR Minister Priyank Kharge should resign, taking moral responsibility for the scam.

"Committing such malpractice has become a habit for Rudragowda Patil. He was involved in a similar scam earlier, and is out on bail now. As the incident occurred right under the nose of the minister, he should take responsibility and resign," he added.

BJP state general secretary and MLC N Ravikumar said the party has taken the issue seriously and its workers will protest in Kalaburagi and Yadgir districts. He demanded the immediate arrest of all the accused, including Patil, and a comprehensive investigation. "The illegality cannot happen without the cooperation of officials and ministers. Why did KEA give one hour extra time to 20 people in the FDA exam? Only nine have been arrested till now. Why has Patil not been picked up yet? Is it because he is your party worker," he asked Congress leaders.

Students in residential schools wait for uniforms, basic kits

TUSHAR A MAJUKAR & CA ITNALMATH @ Belagavi

THE state government, which has stretched itself financially after introducing four of the five guarantee schemes, does not seem to have enough funds to provide basic necessities for poor students studying in residential schools across the state.

The state has 833 residential schools that are run by different departments, including social welfare, minorities and backward castes. The basic requirements of students, like uniforms, shoes, soap, toothpaste and others, are supplied to students by the government regularly. But this year, the kits have not yet been supplied to the students, though the academic year started in June.

As of now, parents of students are taking care of these costs. A teacher at one such residential school said it has become difficult to convince students about lack of government support. The kits have not been supplied as the government is said to be facing a fund crunch, he added.

Rani Channamma Residential School at Athani

Sources in the Karnataka Residential Institutions Society said residential schools have students studying from 6th standard to 10th. Each class has around 50 students and each school has about 250 students. With 833 government residential schools across the state, the total number of students studying in these schools is upwards of two lakh.

Basavaraj Yadwad, Assistant Director of Social Welfare Department, Athani, said providing basic necessities to residential school students does not come under his department. A special cell, Karnataka Vasati Shikshana Samsthe, has been formed and it is based in Bengaluru. Yadwad said he has informed his higher-ups, who have alerted the cell. "We are expecting the problem to be solved soon," he added.

Naveen Kumar Raju S, Executive Director, Karnataka Residential Institutions Society, Bengaluru, was not available for comment.

BBMP acts against pubs operating on terrace

MOHAMMED YACOOB
@ Bengaluru

FOLLOWING the fire tragedy at Mudpipe Cafe earlier this month, in which a person was seriously injured, pubs and restaurants, especially those operating on terrace, are facing the heat as BBMP is carrying out inspections and cancelling permissions and closing them down for lapses.

BBMP Chief Health Officer AS Balasundar said there is no provision to give permission to any restaurant or pub to function on terraces under the Karnataka Municipal Corporation Act. "Some establishments dealing with food and beverages or pubs take permission to operate on the top floor, and use the terrace, which is a violation of trade licence. Such trades have been shut. Since the process of inspection is still on, we are yet to prepare a consolidated report," said the official.

As the Palike says it cannot allow terrace operations for shops and establishments, many owners are left in the lurch. A restaurant owner in East Bengaluru said, "Days after the Mudpipe Cafe incident, the fire department and BBMP staff had come to check our premises. We have been following norms. We had a few chairs and tables on the terrace. The officials said we cannot use the terrace to run the restaurant. Hence, we have limited it to the ground floor only."

The BBMP has pressed its health officials at all wards to check pubs, hotels and restaurants to ensure that they are following fire safety norms. "Notices are being issued, and several places have been closed for lapses, and not following fire safety norms. The kitchen should be clean and adequate measures should be taken to handle inflammable items. Many establishments have not been following rules and hence, notices were issued and some were even shut. Till October 28, 49 shops and establishments have been closed," said Balasundar.

Prevent fires, upgrade fire brigade: Stakeholders eye safer cities

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE fire safety department will submit a report on measures to be taken to prevent fire accidents in urban areas, including Bengaluru, to the department soon. Revenue Minister Krishna Byre Gowda convened a meeting with various stakeholders, including disaster management officials who come under the Revenue department.

Byre Gowda told the meeting that there have been three fire disasters in Bengaluru in the past 20 days. Coincidentally, even while the minister was holding the meeting, the city saw a fourth fire that gutted private buses. He said people are worried about fires, so the fire brigade should be able to prevent the occurrence of fire disasters across the state, including in urban areas, he suggested.

He said the increasing number of fires in the city is putting people at risk. "This has led to panic among people. Precautionary measures should be taken to prevent fire disasters and the fire brigade should also be upgraded," he said. He instructed the authorities to check for measures taken to prevent fire accidents while giving permission for the construction of new buildings.

DGP, Fire and Emergency Services, Kamal Pant, presented an action plan for upgrading the fire brigade. He proposed new fire brigades at Manipal in Udupi, Nyamati in Davanagere, Nidagundi-Babaleshwar in Vijayapura district, Maski in Raichur, Mudalagi in Belagavi, Kampli in Ballari and Shahbad in Kalaburagi districts.

BRS MP injured in knife attack

38-year-old man booked for murder attempt

P KRISHNA @ Siddipet

BRS Dubbak Assembly candidate and MP Kotha Prabhakar Reddy was stabbed with a knife by a 38-year-old man, identified later as Gaddam Raju from Pedda Chepyala village of Mirdoddi mandal, at Surampalli village of Daulatabad mandal in Siddipet district.

Learning about the incident, Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao rushed to Hyderabad from Narayankhed and consoled the family members of Prabhakar Reddy at the hospital. He enquired the health condition of Reddy with doctors.

The MP sustained four stab injuries in stomach in the attack and was rushed to the Gajwel Government Hospital for preliminary treatment and later to Yashoda Hospital in Hyderabad. Doctors performed surgery and the MP is stated to be out of danger.

Prabhakar Reddy's security personnel disarmed Raju, but not before the knife pierced his stomach. Witnessing the attack, BRS activists beat up Raju badly and handed him over to the police.

Finance Minister T Harish Rao, learning of the incident, rushed to Gajwel, cancelling his scheduled participation in the public meeting to be addressed by the chief minister in Narayankhed. Harish Rao later visited Yashoda Hospital to monitor Prabhakar Reddy's condition.

BRS activists in Dubbaka mandal headquarters also burnt an effigy of BJP candidate M Raghunandan Rao, suspecting initially that the BJP was behind the incident. Later, the BRS blamed the Congress for the incident. The incident sparked protests across various parts of the erstwhile Medak district.

Siddipet Police Commissioner N Shwetha Reddy, who provided details of the incident, said that Prabhakar Reddy was campaigning in Surampalli of Daulatabad mandal when he was attacked.

The police have registered a case of attempted murder under IPC Case under section 307 of IPC was registered against the accused Gaddam Raju. The police commissioner said that Gaddam Raju was yet to be questioned.

IT'S AN ATTACK ON ME, SAYS KCR

Stating that there was no room for violence in elections, BRS supremo and Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao has held "Congress Daddammalu" responsible for the attack on Kotha Prabhakar Reddy. He said, "Congress fellows, who are unable to win in elections, attacked Prabhakar Reddy with a knife. BRS never resorted to violence in the last 10 years. Do we not have hands to stab some with a knife?"

Martin shot videos while buying items for IEDs

ANILKUMAR T & TOBY ANTONY
@Kochi

DOMINIC Martin, the main suspect in the blasts during a prayer meet of Jehovah's Witnesses in Kochi on Sunday that left three dead, had taken videos of his visits to the shops from where he procured the materials for making the IEDs, the police have found. He also preserved the receipts of all the purchases.

The police recorded Martin's arrest on Monday evening, 28 hours after he surrendered claiming responsibility of the explosions at the Zamra International Convention Centre in Kalamassery. Two women, Liyona Poulose, 60, of Perumbavoor and Kumari, 53, of Kaliyar in Idukki, died following the blast on Sunday, while the third victim, 12-year-old Libina, succumbed to burns on Monday. "We collected some evidence from the crime scene and the accused, but they need to be verified. Since it was a bomb blast, national agencies are involved in the probe," said a police source.

A group comprising officers of the NIA, National Security Guard, Intelligence Bureau, and the police's special investigation team questioned Martin – to no success – to check whether he had any other motive besides what he claimed in the Facebook Live video that he posted before surrendering. He had cited his anger towards the Christian group for not heeding his words as the motive.

The police also visited the places Martin went to purchase the items for the IEDs, and are learnt to have collected CCTV footage of his movement. The police, who also raided Martin's rented house, believe he prepared the IEDs in his apartment in Athani that he had rented out to employees of KAMCO.

"Since the employees would be at work during the day, Martin used to visit the apartment on the pretext of painting and repair works. The preparation and testing of IEDs may have been done there," said a source.

Caste clash over temple renovation work in Krishnagiri leaves 10 injured

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Krishnagiri

AFTER a dispute regarding temple renovation between caste Hindus and SC residents of Sokkadi village, a group of caste Hindus allegedly entered the Dalit settlement and pelted stones on the residents. Over 10 people from both sides were injured in the clash on Sunday evening. A part of a thatched wall near the Dalit settlement was also set on fire, police said. Salem Range DIG S Rajeswari said four people from both sides have been arrested.

According to sources, as part of the renovation work being carried out by caste Hindus at a Mariyamman temple in the village, granite polishing work was going on at the shrine near the Adi Dravidar settlement. Due to the granite grinding and polishing work, Dalit residents have been suffering from air and noise pollution. They have been complaining about it to the temple authorities, who are caste Hindus.

Four each from two caste groups were arrested at Sokkadi | EXPRESS

"Around 5 pm on Sunday, T Santhosh, a Dalit, asked the workers to stop the work. The workers told their owner, and he in turn brought the demand to the notice of the village headman, Rajan. After Rajan reached the spot, a verbal altercation broke out between M Anbarasu (30), a Dalit, and Rajan," M Marappan (48), a resident, said.

"Around 5.30pm some caste Hindus came to the settlement and said the matter will be discussed on Monday. Over 20 police personnel were also deployed. On Sunday around 9.30pm, over 30 caste Hindus entered the Dalit enclave and started attacking our people by throwing stones in the presence of police," he said.

Midday meal workers sit on strike, kids go hungry

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

DESPITE several appeals and protests since December 2022, midday meal (Bisi Oota) workers in Karnataka still have long-pending demands. On Monday, the workers declared an indefinite strike in the state and staged a protest at Freedom Park under the aegis of the Centre of Indian Trade Unions (CITU). Due to the protest, the supply of midday meals to school students was affected in Koppal and Kolar districts.

Around 1,19,000 midday workers serve over 55,80,000 students regularly. Organising the strike district-wise, over 450 workers from Koppal and Kolar were in the city registering their protests due to which no midday meals were served in schools in the districts. The organisation said on Tuesday, workers from Bagalkot will protest and no food will be served in schools in the district.

Speaking to TNIE, S Varalakshmi, state president, Akshara Dasoha Naukarara Sanga, said, "Until Diwali, workers from each district will come and protest at Freedom Park. If the government still does not fulfil our demands, the entire state's midday meal workers will stop their work post the festival."

She added that so far, all their protests and strikes have fallen on deaf ears. "The government wants to send only junior officers to hear our problems, but nothing materialises post those discussions," she said.

Other demands include a pension of Rs 1 lakh to those who were laid off post reaching 60 years of age, a compensation of Rs 25 lakh in case of death at the workplace and the proposed hike in salary under the new budget should be implemented from January 2023 and be duly compensated in their latest salaries.

The protestors also said the government should recognise workers under the 45th and 46th Indian Labour Laws till the scheme is established and also that cooks be appointed as 'Group D' workers in schools.

Switzerland, India to research antimicrobial resistance

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

TO research and better understand antimicrobial resistance (AMR), several organisations and institutions from India and Switzerland gathered in Bengaluru for a three-day event that ends on Tuesday.

Swissnex in India (Consulate General of Switzerland) which is a Swiss science and technology consulate, the Universities of Geneva and Zurich, the National Centre for Biological Sciences (NCBS) and the Indian Institute of Science Education and Research (IISER Pune), launched the Indo-Swiss AMR Innovation Dialogue at NCBS on Sunday and the Indo-Swiss Innovation Platform on Monday, which will facilitate more partnerships and collaborations between the two nations.

Over 50 experts from India and Switzerland will discuss innovative approaches to address AMR. The study on antimicrobials is important because the last time a class of broad-spectrum antibiotics was developed was about five decades ago. "Lack of awareness around AMR is prompting people to misuse antibiotics for infections that are not bacterial—particularly viral and fungal. The disease-causing bacteria in our bodies are developing resistance to the antibiotics and very soon we'll run out of the strongest antibiotics available," read the press statement.

Dr Ralf Heckner, Ambassador of Switzerland to India, said, "This year we are not only celebrating 75 years of unalterable friendship between our two countries, but we are hard at work to further realise our bilateral potential in investments with a Free Trade Agreement and innovation with the launch of the Indo-Swiss Innovation Platform."

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Vizianagaram/Visakhapatnam

CHIEF Minister YS Jagan Mohan Reddy on Monday sought Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Union Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw to conduct a probe into Vizianagaram train tragedy that claimed at least 13 lives. Taking to X (formerly Twitter), he requested the Centre to constitute a high-level audit committee to thoroughly examine the reasons behind the train accidents on all rail lines across the country. In the same post, the Chief Minister raised a few questions and asked as to why the breaking system and alert system did not function, why the signalling failed and how there were lapses in communications system. He urged the Prime Minister and the Railway Minister to ensure that such devastating accidents do not recur, not just in the State, but anywhere else in the country.

According to Vizinagaram district officials, 11 of the 13 deceased were identified, including the loco-pilot of Visakhapatnam-Rayagada train, and M Srinivas, guard of the Palasa passenger train. The accident happened at around 7 p.m. on Sunday when the Visakhapatnam-Rayagada passenger rammed into the coaches of Visakhapatnam-Palasa special passenger train while it was waiting for the signal.

WELFARE DISSEMINATION DRIVE IS A COUNTER TO POLITICS OF GUARANTEES

ON the face of it, a new central initiative to get all eligible beneficiaries enrolled into its welfare schemes appears unexceptional. Saturation coverage of pro-poor schemes is a natural expectation in a welfare state. Vehicles with specially fitted communication systems explaining the benefits of the schemes in the local lingo will crisscross India after Diwali, covering all the 2.7 lakh gram panchayats in the process. At a time of high inflation and global headwinds, it can be expected to help address rural distress among the poorest of the poor. But scratch the surface a bit and you sense the political undertones in its crafting. Timed just right, it is expected to act as a force multiplier for the ruling BJP ahead of the 2024 Lok Sabha elections.

Called the Viksit Bharat Sankalp Yatra, the initiative will cover only those central government schemes that were designed after the Modi government came to power in 2014. It is a narrow range of operation that can only mean its objective is to refresh voters' memories about the government's outreach before the dance of democracy begins in a few months. Central government officers of the levels of joint secretaries, directors and deputy secretaries will be designated as special officers to design, drive and deliver the initiative at the grassroots level. No wonder, it drew howls of protest from the opposition as it read into it a not-so-subtle attempt to politicise the bureaucracy. The Election Commission of India agreed with the opposition that the yatra would violate the model code of conduct in place in poll-bound Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh, Telangana and Mizoram, and shooed it off from them.

Set to be launched on November 15, the yatra is expected to be wrapped up by January 25. While reaching out to the downtrodden is welcome, the yatra in its present form cannot shake off allegations of partisanship. Besides, how it covers opposition-ruled states would be interesting to watch. There have been allegations of an uneven spread of central schemes in some of those states. The yatra comes at a time when the BJP is looking for ways to neutralise the politics of guarantees by the opposition in poll-bound states. Those goodies are getting bigger and bigger. In 2019, schemes such as free housing and LPG cylinders had good voter recall across the country, hence the urgency in pushing them before the IOUs are encashed.

PARA ASIAD HAUL AUGURS WELL FOR PARIS TEST

THERE is arguably no better mirror that reflects the human ability to adapt and move on than para-sports. So when Sheetal Devi, an armless archer, picked up the arrow with her feet, drew the strings and found her mark, the video went viral. The 16-year-old at once turned into an image of resilience and hope—the spirit that can rekindle life. She was among the 303 Indian para-athletes at the Asian Para Games in Hangzhou who had their own telling tales of rising from the depths of despair. After the high of the Asian Games, where India breached the 100-medal mark, all eyes were on these athletes—191 male and 112 female athletes who competed in 17 disciplines. Like at the Asiad, the Para Games too turned out to be India's best ever. India bagged 111 medals—29 golds, 31 silvers and 51 bronzes—and finished fifth behind China, Iran, Japan and South Korea. The icing on the cake was when India created six world records as well as 13 Asian records. They won the country's first-ever medals in rowing, canoe and taekwondo. Just to put the record in context, in 2014 India had 33 medals including three golds and finished 15th. In 2018, 190 athletes participated and won 72 medals including 15 golds, and ended ninth on the table.

Things are usually complicated when it comes to the Paralympic Committee of India (PCI). They were suspended in 2015 by the International Paralympic Committee, followed by the sports ministry, for infighting, poor management and gross negligence of athletes. Even in 2019, the sports ministry suspended the PCI for violating the sports code on governance. The PCI has always been under the scanner for the wrong reasons. High-handedness, infighting and corruption were just some of the allegations they faced. There have been charges of favouritism especially in accompanying para-athletes to events; there was a controversy this July before the World Para Athletics Championships on this issue. Athletes have cried foul at almost every national competition. One good thing was that the sports ministry and Sports Authority of India kept supporting the athletes with funds, training and exposure. Things have changed over the last few years, yet there is room for vast improvement. India finished 21st at the Tokyo Paralympics with 19 medals. With Paris just nine months away, the 100-plus effort does augur well for India.

QUICK TAKE

STAY COOL TO COOLING PLEDGE

NATIONS are expected to announce a cooling pledge at the climate conference in Dubai in early December. There is pressure on India to join the pledge. We have our own Cooling Action Plan and heed the target for producing ozone-depleting chemicals we committed to in 1992 under the Montreal Protocol. India accounts for just over three percent of the total global carbon dioxide emitted since 1858. But the country is changing fast and its carbon footprint is growing faster than ever. So while we can legitimately refuse to be pressured into a cooling pledge, we should update our own goals as things change on the ground.

Fighting in densely built areas like Gaza calls for specific considerations. The asymmetry in military capability Israel enjoyed over Palestinians would not be at play

GAZA GAMEPLAN DEPENDS ON UNIQUE FACTORS

THE ongoing Israel-Hamas standoff is unpredictably stuck in the domain of military progression. By now, the world would have expected an Israeli blitzkrieg into Gaza and anywhere else from where threats emanated towards Israel. The Israel Defence Force (IDF) is yet to make up its mind on assessing the threats, its own capability to fight through Gaza and win, and what nature of victory over Hamas to look for. In addition, there is the whole issue of the 220-plus hostages to resolve. Geopolitical movement in West Asia is also frozen because much would depend on the manner in which military operations proceed.

Victory or defeat, without defining what they exactly mean in this context, would decide the eventual balance; we are nowhere near any such situation and are unlikely to be for quite some time. So, it is the progress and outcome of military operations which will create trigger points for all other activities. This is what needs more analysis because it is the domain least known publicly.

Israel commenced a campaign of indiscriminate bombing, though it claimed surgical air strikes on Hamas command centres, missile sites and logistics locations. Hamas had been smart and for long had housed all these in the basements of multi-storied buildings or in tunnels underground. Israel is not wrong when it says it is striking the war-waging facilities, but all these strikes are having greater collateral effects than affecting the actual targets. High-rise buildings are being reduced to rubble with no assurance that the Hamas facility targeted has actually been destroyed.

Any soldier who knows the concept of fighting in built areas (FIBUA) will vouch that it is the last form of warfare he would like to be involved in. In the Indo-Pak conflict of 1965, the Indian army, in the famous September 1 counteroffensive, reached the outskirts of Lahore with the Bata factory in sight. The leadership correctly opted to stop. FIBUA in Lahore would have been suicidal. It was the same in Jaffna in October 1987 but we did not have options then. FIBUA there cost us over 500 lives, with scores more wounded. Jaffna was not even half as densely built up as Gaza is. The Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam had its ammunition and landmines factories within and defended to the teeth. Hamas would not be any less.

So, is the IDF stalling a potential offensive into Gaza, an offensive that the political leadership has been talking about so vociferously and Joe Biden has been advising against? The IDF is used to functioning in an environment of serious existential challenges. However, the asymmetry it enjoyed in military capability and craftsmanship over all Arab armies and the Palestinians no longer exists. The hubris and confidence which existed in the mind also got neutralised by the Hamas strikes on October 7.

We need to recall that almost 1,300 Israelis and other citizens died in that rehearsed and remorseless strike. If that operation for conflict initiation took six months of preparation as has been assessed by some, then it seems obvious that Hamas may have also visualised the Israeli response on being surprised—a quick-fire entry into Gaza with all the conventional and modern means of warfighting. Hamas would be prepared with an advantage apart from having the 220-odd hostages. With the announcement of the deaths of 20 hostages due to Israeli shelling and bombing, Hamas would try and regain the moral high ground, something actually non-existent thus far in a war that has simply no ethics to speak of.

The IDF has announced a three-phase operation but it appears more like a concept paper than an operational plan. Phase 1 is all about airstrikes and some ground manoeuvres to destroy operatives and damage infrastructure to destroy Hamas. Phase 2 is to be of operations of reducing intensity while eliminating the remaining pockets of resistance. Phase 3 will be more of a mop-up operation, what in the Indian army we call reorganisation. The last phase will involve withdrawal so as to remove Israeli responsibility for the administration of Gaza. The concept of operations is a broad-brush operational instruction, leaving enough to be interpreted by those who have to execute it.

The initial gung-ho approach of getting North Gaza vacated and commencing a multi-pronged offensive with armour leading across a narrow frontage and the coastline providing flank security appears to be in doubt, though the shelling continues. Movement through the Gaza built-up area will create severe disadvantages for the IDF; it is difficult to assess how Hamas has prepared for this. At a guess, many strong points firing at short distances will exist and these would be equipped with all kinds of weapons possible, including short-range anti-tank weapons and drones.

With the Israeli body count at 1,300 and rising, the disadvantage Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu suffers is that he cannot afford to sanction a military operation which will cause even more casualties for the IDF. Only an unconventional riposte with a low scope for casualties will be acceptable, but this won't guarantee any outcomes of advantage.

If it is true that most of the advice to and planning of Hamas operations is ISIS-initiated, then it is unlikely that Iran will do more than just pay lip service in support for the sake of demonstrating competitive Islamic leadership. While it's true that sectarian sentiments sometimes do not come in the way of Islamic unity, it is also a fact that ISIS involvement will not be tolerated by Iran, Syria, Iraq or entities such as Hezbollah. The northern border operations could thus be only demonstration.

Although indications have been given that Phase 2 has already commenced, there is a shrouded approach underway and the Israeli leadership is under pressure not to exert across the border beyond a level. With negotiations and third-party involvement, hostages could progressively get released. Israel will then perhaps rely on covert operations to take out the current Hamas leadership in Gaza or anywhere else. Conflict termination remains a challenge and the war could end up as interminable as the war in Ukraine. Geopolitics can only be assessed with the outcomes of all the analyses spelt out here.

STEEL FRAME FACES THREAT OF IRREPARABLE DAMAGE

K JAYAKUMAR

Former Kerala chief secretary and ex-VC, Thunchath Ezhuthachan Malayalam University

THE civil service of the country, often referred to as the steel frame, has endured several political upheavals and uncertainties in the past seven decades. Although the All India Services and Central Services may not have always performed at their peak capacity given the challenges they faced during the course of our variegated political history, they have managed tolerably well. Our bureaucracy is permanent insofar as every succeeding government does not induct its set of people to run the official machinery. That implicitly means that government servants at all levels owe their allegiance to the Constitution of India. They carry out the orders and decisions of the elected governments regardless of the politics and policies of the party in power.

As long as those in power appreciate the independence of the bureaucracy and use it for legitimate development and enforcement, this arrangement is perfect. However, human frailty is bound to disturb such theoretically perfect arrangements. This was first evident during Indira Gandhi's term as prime minister when she extolled the virtues of a 'committed civil service'. She perhaps tried to rationalise commitment as dedication to development and people's causes. But the bureaucracy read the exhortation for a 'committed civil service' as the demand for loyalty to the party and leader in power.

Commitment in the bureaucracy has preceded Indira Gandhi in the form of the service organisations that segregated employees on political lines in several states and in major organisations at the Centre. Superimposed on such partisan loyalties, the committed civil service concept created cleavages in the higher echelons of the bureaucracy by creating 'trusted and loyal officers' and the 'not with us' types. Once the trusted officers are seen to be receiving the rewards of loyalty such as plum postings, lucrative perks and elevations to constitutional positions, and the 'not with us' and independent officers are getting ignored, harassed and penalised, the message becomes clear and unambiguous.

All governments do a little bit of tweaking. However, governments with a huge majority and ideological underpinnings are more prone to this kind of loyalty-ensuring behaviour. Quick to realise that minority governments or governments with thin margins and ad hoc coalitions are bound to be short-lived, the bureaucracy does not risk being identified with such transient power formations. They wait for a government led by a strong party with a massive mandate, powerful leader and the likelihood of winning another election. Ideology then becomes a convenient fig leaf to cover the shame of their greed for preferential privileges.

All of a sudden, the preferred vocabulary and ideas—however fanciful they might be—are internalised by such converts. They begin to wear loyalty on their sleeves. It will be rewarding for them in the short term, but the long-term damage they cause to the independence, fairness and objectivity of the bureaucracy and the massive erosion of its credibility are fundamental in nature.

PTI

Indira Gandhi wanted a 'committed civil service'. She justified it as commitment to development. The bureaucracy read it as a call for loyalty and fell in line. The rot continues. Officers should recall their oath to the Constitution

The beauty and power of a parliamentary democracy is its capability for self renewal through periodic elections. No political grouping can be in power for more than five years. Of course they can hope to get re-elected, though this cannot be taken for granted. It is a matter of national concern that in the past decade, freedom and fairness of several organisations have been heavily eroded. Officers who have tried to resist have been sidelined and often harassed. Wrongly implicated persons have been repeatedly let free by courts as the grounds for prosecution are weak and unsubstantiated. The self-correcting mechanism of these agencies has been meticulously disabled by pliant functionaries.

As a result, many once-trusted agencies have become tools to harass, intimidate, humiliate and silence political opponents and free-minded officers. When systems of check and balance are ignored and institutions are used with narrow political motives, the free judgement of organisations and the accountability of officers become casualties. Once such institutions are enfeebled and discredited, the resultant loss of faith strikes at the very root of administrative fairness. This eagerness to comply and conform becomes infectious. Officers take the cue and vie with each other to be 'more loyal than thee' and compete for anticipatory compliance.

Such an ecosystem does not acknowledge, much less openly discuss, the shortcomings of administration. Statistics that the government does not relish are questioned or hushed and those who are responsible for independent and objective findings are pushed out. Even those who audit the public expenditure in line with the mandate of the Comptroller and Auditor General of India are not spared. It is a clear message that loyalty has been installed in the prime space left by demonetised truth.

Governments will come and go in a democracy. But once the permanent bureaucracy and institutions are sapped of their vigour of fair judgement, it will be almost impossible to repair these and the administration will forfeit people's trust. Succeeding governments will be tempted to abuse the already tamed, willing-to-crawl bureaucracy for short-term benefits. The vicious cycle will repeat itself. Until a visionary leader arrives to stem the rot. That could be a long wait. Meanwhile, officers should recall that the oath they have taken is on the Constitution of India. Once that is forgotten, the steel frame may lose its tensile strength forever.

Will make efforts to secure naval veterans: EAM

Meets relatives of veterans who have been awarded death sentence by a Qatar court

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

EXTERNAL Affairs Minister S Jaishankar on Monday met the family members of eight former Indian Navy personnel, who have been sentenced to death by a Qatari court, and assured them that the government would make all efforts to secure their release.

The 8 naval veterans have been imprisoned in Doha since August 30, 2022. "The government attaches the highest importance to the case. We fully share the pains of the families. We will continue to make all efforts to secure their release and will coordinate closely with families," said Jaishankar.

A Qatari lower court on October 26 announced the death penalty for the naval veterans, without disclosing the charges. The families of the Navy veterans have launched signature campaigns, have been staging protests and have appealed to the government to intervene to secure their release.

The eight veterans were working for Dhara Consultancies in Doha and were taken for what was assumed to be a routine exercise on August 30, 2022. However, none of the officers ever came back as they were put in solitary confinement for over six months. Charges were framed against them which were not made public.

After seven hearings, the judgment made on October 26 awarded the death penalty to the former Navy personnel, again without revealing the charges. However, despite the setbacks, there is optimism that the verdict would be reversed and the eight veterans would be repatriated to India.

Meanwhile, Indian Navy chief R Hari kumar in Goa said that all efforts are being made by the government to find relief for eight personnel who have been awarded death sentence by a court in Qatar. "I have not yet seen the transcript of the court hearing...it was supposed to have been transcribed and provided to us on Sunday. We will have a look at it.," he said.

Ram temple construction a nat'l job: Nripendra Misra

FOR Nripendra Misra, former Principal Secretary to the Prime Minister and now chairman of the temple construction committee of the Shri Ram Janambhoomi Teerth Kshetra Trust, his present responsibility feels like a "divine grace." In an interview with Rajesh Kumar Thakur, Misra dwells on various facets of the temple construction at Ayodhya. Excerpts

You held very high-profile roles in India's administrative dispensation, whether as TRAI chief or in the PMO in 2014-19. Now you are in charge of the Ayodhya temple construction. How do you rank them in terms of significance?

I had opted for a career in the IAS, where I charted a certain trajectory. At one point, I was the private secretary to Mulayam Singh Yadav and when Kalyan Singh came to power, I continued in the same capacity with him also. After having held the chairmanship of TRAI, there was a gap.

Then I was called back to serve as principal secretary to Prime Minister Narendra Modi. These were defined positions with defined responsibilities. I was then made the chairman of the temple construction committee, a position created after the Supreme Court judgment on Ayodhya. From agitation to construction, I've witnessed it all. The nature of this work is not just national; its impact is supposed to be felt by every citizen of the country and abroad. The task was very complicated for me initially. I was to deal with different interest groups. The people who were responsible for bringing the matter to this stage are now members of the trust.

In Ayodhya, local residents too were to be heard. The people were demanding that the temple should have a lifespan of 1,000 years. There were technological and engineering issues. I believe my role in completing the temple construction is divine as well as historic.

You were trained as a civil servant. How did you manage your present assignment, given your background? Did you find any contradiction?

Verbatim

I don't think a country can develop independent of its culture, religions and faith. As citizens, we must have a certain conduct and ethics. The moral directions or ethical values flow from religious beliefs. I grew up in an atmosphere where my family had a certain way of worshipping. We have some scriptures. God tells us to be honest and be committed to our nation. The nation comes first. These things come from the scriptures. I never felt any conflict between my personal beliefs, faith, and my job. I think if you're religious, you will certainly value human life. I believe that caste and religion are not considered factors in conducting our relationship socially. Inclusivity is necessary for development— including social development. There was no conflict when I accepted this job.

SHEKHAR YADAV

Did PM Modi ever make any suggestion to you for the temple construction?

Yes, whenever I met him, his first question was naturally about my job and the second about how the proposed museum has been coming up in Ayodhya. He always made inquiries about the construction. He heard everything and suggested many things which he thought would be worthy of incorporating into the temple. However, his guidance never came as interference in temple construction. He talked about the foundation of the temple. He remained concerned sometimes in terms of cost and in terms of the time being taken in the construction. There was a stage when he wanted the temple design to be determined in a manner acceptable to all. He wanted everyone coming from across the country to see their faiths radiating from the temples dedicated to Maharshi Valmiki, Vashishtha, Nishad, Ahilya and Sabari who contributed to drawing the ethics of life while Ram was in exile. He was keen on the use of new technology. One of them, adopted in the temple, will ensure that the sun's rays fall on the forehead of the idol of Lord Ram on Ramnavami.

Were foreign donations also accepted for the temple construction?

No foreign donations are accepted as such. An SBI account was opened to receive donations from NRIs. They (NRIs) were a bit agitated as to why they were not being allowed to contribute. We don't receive donations from the government or foreign people. The temple is being built with people's donations.

The temple is going to open in January next year. Once the temple is open, how are you planning to develop infrastructure to meet the inflow of devotees?

I think a mobile population of 2.5 lakh will be visiting Ayodhya daily after the temple is open. All civic amenities will require strengthening and modernisation. It is being done by the state government and other authorities. The railway station has been completely rebuilt and the airport is likely to be inaugurated this November. Almost all requirements and infrastructure needs are being addressed. At present, my challenge is ensuring the safety of devotees while continuing with the temple construction work.

How many old heritage structures in Ayodhya are likely to be retained when the temple is complete?

I am told that departments responsible for the maintenance and conservation of heritage structures are working keenly on their upkeep. Local people too are sensitive towards the heritage. The beauty of Ayodhya will not be disturbed while carrying out development.

How are the banks of the Sarayu being developed in this re-imagined 'holy' city?

There is a big plan for the development of the river bank. There is also a proposal for starting a cruise service. Ayodhya has to be developed while retaining its heritage and grandeur, it has to be modernised with all amenities.

Can you specify some of the special features that are being put in place?

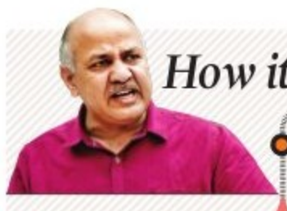
We have tested the stability of the construction in a manner that it can withstand the worst earthquake. There will be murals projecting the messages of Lord Ram. The Ramkatha murals will be on the temple's lower plinth. Around 18,000 religious figures have been carved in the temple. While about Rs 700 crore is being spent on the overall construction, over Rs 900 core was set aside for the outer perimeter. There will be a single idol of Ram Lalla installed in the temple sanctum.

It is said that many Muslim families are happy setting up their shops in and around the temple area.

Yes, they are happy. There is complete communal harmony in Ayodhya. I have interacted with them and they are working for the development of the area.

Setback to Sisodia as SC rejects bail plea

JAISON WILSON @ New Delhi



THE Supreme Court on Monday refused to grant bail to AAP senior leader and former Delhi Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia in relation to the alleged corruption and money laundering cases in the now-scrapped excise policy of the national capital, saying "transfer of ₹338 crore is tentatively established".

A bench of justices Sanjiv Khanna and SVN Bhatti also took note that the prosecution's assurance that the trial would be concluded in six to eight months, saying if it goes at a "snail's pace", he can approach the apex court again.

"Legal questions have been answered in a limited way. In the analysis, there are certain aspects, which we said are doubtful. But one aspect, with regard to transfer of money, ₹338 crore, is tentatively established. We have therefore dismissed the application for bail," the bench said.

The bench, however said, it is also concerned about the prolonged period of incarceration suffered by Sisodia. The AAP leader, who has been behind bars since February 26 in the alleged corruption case related to the now-scrapped excise policy of the national capital, was initially arrested by the CBI and later arrested by the ED on March 9 in Tihar Jail in a related case of money laundering. His multiple bail pleas were dismissed by courts.

"..even if the allegation is one of grave economic offence, it is not a rule that bail should be denied in every case," it was observed.

"..The reason is that the constitutional mandate is the higher law, and it is the basic right of the person charged of an offence and not convicted, that he be ensured and given a speedy trial. When the trial is not proceeding for reasons not attributable to the accused, the court, unless there are good reasons, may well be guided to exercise the power to grant bail. This would be truer where the trial would take years," it was stated.

The CBI has submitted that conspiracy and involvement of Manish Sisodia is "well established". As per the agency, the excise policy was changed to facilitate and get kickbacks and bribes from the wholesale distributors by enhancing their commission from 5% under the old policy to 12% under the new policy, which "favoured and promoted cartelisation."

The ED submitted that the petitioner conspired to allow illegal benefits in lieu of kickbacks of ₹100 crore in the case. It also argued that a portion of the money, ₹45 crore was transferred through Hawala for the Goa election and used by AAP.

Deadline set for Maha Speaker in MLAs' disqualification case

JAISON WILSON @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court issued a directive on Monday, instructing Maharashtra Assembly Speaker Rahul Narwekar to make a decision on the disqualification proceedings involving rebel MLAs from the erstwhile Shiv Sena party, including CM Eknath Shinde and others, by December 31. The bench, presided over by Chief Justice DY Chandrachud, also mandated a ruling on the disqualification proceedings concerning NCP MLAs by January 24, 2024.

During the proceedings before the bench, which included Justices JB Pardiwala and Manoj Misra, the legislative secretariat cited the upcoming Diwali vacations and winter session of the assembly, suggesting that the proceedings under the 10th schedule of the Constitution would be concluded on February 29 the next year.

However, the apex court firmly asserted that procedural complications should not result in unnecessary delays in resolving these pleas, emphasizing that the court had repeatedly granted extensions to the Speaker to finalize the proceedings under the 10th schedule.

The case was prompted by a plea seeking instructions for the Speaker to expedite the pending disqualification pleas against the rebel MLAs.

In the previous hearing on October 13, the CJI-led bench expressed its dissatisfaction with the Speaker's handling of the disqualification proceedings, asserting that these proceedings should be concluded before the upcoming elections.

The bench criticized the Speaker's actions in the context of the anti-defection proceedings.

INDIA bloc alliance for assembly polls would have been good: Yechury

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

THE Communist Party of India-Marxist general secretary Sitaram Yechury on Monday said that it would have been better if there was an understanding among parties who are part of the Indian National Developmental Inclusive Alliance (INDIA) for ongoing assembly elections in five states.

"Though INDIA bloc was formed primarily for the 2024 general elections; had there been an understanding on assembly elections in five states, it would have been better... We wished there had been greater coordination and greater coordination," said Yechury.

He was responding to the alleged internal fighting in the group of opposition parties set up to take on the BJP, leading the Government at the Centre.

On absence of CPIM nominee in the Coordination Committee of INDIA bloc, he said that it was not required as the decision is taken by the top leadership of the parties.

Therefore, the party opposed the idea of having committees in the meeting of the bloc held in Mumbai and ultimately, the party did not name its nominee for the same, added Yechury.

"Decisions are always taken by the top level leadership. In the first meeting (of INDIA block coordination committee), two decisions were taken; joint public meeting (of opposition party) in Bhopal and to champion caste census. Both have to be reserved... don't complicate the matter when there are various levels of decision making," he said.

He said that the CPIM announced candidates in three states—Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh and Madhya Pradesh because discussion on seat sharing with the Congress could not yield results.

"Talks with Congress were held in Rajasthan. It progressed but it couldn't materialise. There was no scope left, so candidatures were announced... Political parties have their own requirements, there are areas where they have struggled--, they have to fight even if they don't win. This is electoral politics," said Yechury.

The CPIM will be contesting for 17 seats in Rajasthan and nominated candidates for three assemblies in Chhattisgarh. In Madhya Pradesh, the party has chosen three seats to fight elections.

Though INDIA bloc was formed primarily for the 2024 general elections; had there been an understanding on assembly elections in five states, it would have been better

Covid survivors advised against hard labour

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

AMID a surge in heart attacks among the young, Union Health and Family Welfare Minister Mansukh Mandaviya has said that those who have suffered from severe Covid-19 infections should not exert themselves too much while doing exercise and should stay away from hard labour for some time.

His remarks came as several deaths due to heart issues were reported in Gujarat recently during the garba events that marked the Navratri festivities. Those who died of heart attacks included a class 12 student. Mandaviya said the Indian Council of Medical Research had done a detailed study on the subject and advised that those who had recovered from severe Covid-19 infections should not exert themselves.

"The ICMR has done a detailed study recently. It recommended that those who had severe Covid should desist from extra labour; that they should stay away from continuous labour, uphill running, exercise, etc., for a specified short period, meaning a year or two, so that heart attacks can be prevented," Mandaviya said on the sidelines of an event in Bhavnagar in Gujarat.

The deaths due to heart attacks in Gujarat have prompted the state health minister Rushikesh Patel to hold a meeting with medical experts, including cardiologists. He has also asked experts to collect data on the deaths to find out causes and remedies.

A study by LocalCircles has also said that more young people are experiencing brain stroke, cardiac arrest, and heart attacks in India since the Covid-19 outbreak.

The survey, which was first reported by this paper, confirmed that there had been a 21 per cent increase in people who have had one or more of their close contacts experience brain stroke, cardiac arrest, heart attack and cancer acceleration in the past year.

The survey, which surveyed over 11,000 people in 322 districts in India, said that 72 per cent reported one or more individuals in their close social network – extended family, friends, neighbours and colleagues – experiencing medical conditions like brain stroke, cardiac arrest, heart attack and cancer acceleration in the last three-and-a-half-years post March 2020 following the Covid-19 pandemic outbreak in India.

The survey also found that the percentage of citizens with such cases amongst their close contacts increased by 21% from October 2022 to October 2023.

Another ICMR study, which mapped patients from 31 hospitals across India between September 2020 and October 2022, said that those who died within 90 days of discharge required intensive care. It also said that most deaths were due to heart failure or myocardial infarction.

What causes unexplained deaths?

Anecdotal reports of sudden deaths among healthy young adults led researchers to conduct the investigation. The deaths raised concerns that they might be related to COVID-19 or the vaccination against the disease

ADVICE BY ICMR

- AVOID EXTRA LABOUR
- STAY AWAY FROM CONTINUOUS LABOUR,
- NO UPHILL RUNNING, EXERCISE, ETC., FOR A YEAR OR TWO

A PRIVATE SURVEY SAID 21% RISE IN PEOPLE WHO HAVE HAD ONE OR MORE OF THEIR CLOSE CONTACTS EXPERIENCE BRAIN STROKE, CARDIAC ARREST, HEART ATTACK AND CANCER ACCELERATION IN THE PAST YEAR,

Priyanka promises C'garh power sops

Congress announces cooking gas subsidy and loan waiver for women self-help groups

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi Vadra on Monday made a slew of promises to the voters of Chhattisgarh, which included subsidised cooking gas cylinders, an upgrade of state-run schools, a loan waiver for self-help groups (SHGs) and free treatment to victims of road accidents, if her party retains power in the state.

The two-phase elections for the 90-member Assembly are due on November 7 and 17.

Addressing a public rally at Khairagarh constituency, about 140 km from state capital Raipur, she said the Congress would launch Mahtari Nyay Yojana for women with Rs 500 subsidy per cooking gas cylinder, free electricity up to 200 units and loans to SHGs. The loans of women under Saksham Yojana will be written off and around 6,000 schools will be upgraded to Swami Atmanand English and Hindi medium schools.

Under the CM's special health assistance scheme, help in the form of free treatment will be provided to victims of road or other accidents.

Priyanka appreciated the Chhattisgarh model as far better than the Gujarat model and dubbed the latter as nothing more than a "delusion."

In Chhattisgarh, she said, as many 66 minor forest produces get minimum support price. The Congress govt, if it retains power, will also purchase lentil Teivra from farmers at a support price. Priyanka said the Bhupesh Baghel government safeguarded the people of the state from not only the bad impact of the Covid-19 pandemic, the difficult time of joblessness but also from the "bad policies" of the BJP-led Centre.

She attacked the BJP government for misleading the people in the name of religion and complicating the problems of the people by not arranging jobs, and resorting to policies that fueled inflation.

"The nation is witnessing the worst record on unemployment in the last 45 years. But in Chhattisgarh, the unemployment rate is the lowest with no migration of people. The potential created in the state is encouraging other states to come to Chhattisgarh", she said.

She praised the state flagship programme 'Gauthan' (cattle shed premises) that has given a major boost to the rural economy. "Our party works on the vision of Mahatma Gandhi that the nation cannot progress until the development and growth of rural areas," she said. Priyanka stated that Congress has laid the foundation of the Indian Constitution that entitles the eligible citizen to the right to vote in a democracy. "The freedom fought against the British was not for the leaders but for the people of India," she said.

5-yr-old party says wind of change blows in Mizoram

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Serchhip

AS campaigning picks up momentum in Mizoram for the November 7 Assembly elections, the buzz is around the five-year-old party Zoram People's Movement (ZPM).

It is hoping to upset the Mizo National Front (MNF) applecart by championing the cause of regionalism and promising a corruption-free government. It claimed that a wind for change is blowing.

Party's chief ministerial candidate Lalduhoma, who is a former IPS officer, told this newspaper that people have tried and tested Congress and MNF and they will give ZPM a chance this time around.

"Congress and MNF are our two rivals. We have had enough of them. People want change. The main agenda of this election is a non-MNF and non-Congress government, for which we are the only alternative," he said.

The first MP in the country to be disqualified under the anti-defection law, he was attached to former PM Indira Gandhi as a security officer.

"The MNF being a part of (BJP-led) North-East Democratic Alliance and National Democratic Alliance has lost its originality, sanctity and identity. It is no more a regional party. The ZPM is a regional party with a national outlook," Lalduhoma said.

He rubbished Congress leader Rahul Gandhi's charge that ZPM is an "entry point" for BJP in Mizoram stating, "We will protect our identity and freedom and do not want to be dictated from Delhi."

PM's donation to temple sparks row

As elections in Rajasthan heat up, an envelope given as a donation by PM Narendra Modi at the Malaseri Dungri temple in Bhilwara in January has sparked a row. The issue was highlighted by Priyanka Gandhi who claimed that the TV reports showed that the envelope contained only ₹21. At her recent rallies in Dausa and Jhunjhunu, she took a dig at the PM and claimed that while donating a meagre amount, Modi only makes tall claims but delivers nothing. BJP complained to the EC which has issued a notice to Priyanka. RLP chief Hanuman Beniwal said had he been a PM, he would have donted not less than Rs 2,100.

Dotasara figures on Cong posters now

After months of only CM Ashok Gehlot being projected in all ads issued by the ruling Congress in Rajasthan, there has finally been a change. With elections around, new Congress posters and hoardings are also splashing the face of PCC chief GS Dotasra. Last month, there was a buzz that Dotasra had strongly opposed the publicity materials created by Naresh Arora, the chief of the Design Box agency that is running the Congress campaign. The matter also reached Delhi and the bitterness between the two was so sharp that the CM had to visit Dotasra's home to pacify him.

RLP's Beniwal ties up with ASP for Dalit votes

Although the fight in Rajasthan election is considered to be between Congress and BJP, an electoral tie up between Chief of RLP Hanuman Beniwal and Azad Samaj Party President Chandrashekhar Azad is creating waves in Rajasthan. Over the last decade, Beniwal has emerged as a strong face, specially in the forty seats in Rajasthan where the Jat votes are considered a decisive factor. Beniwal's RLP which won three seats in last assembly polls is aiming for a much larger share of representation in the polls. By tying up with the SC face from UP who has a large following in the backward class, he is forging a Jat-Dalit combination as a new factor.

MALLICK HELD

Family reaches ED office with property docus

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

FAMILY members of arrested Trinamool Congress minister Jyotipriya Mallick queued up at the office of the Enforcement Directorate (ED) with documents related to the details of their movable and immovable assets on Monday, on the second consecutive day. Mallick's daughter Priyadarshini and elder brother Debapriya turned up at the office of the central agency, which arrested the trusted lieutenant of chief minister Mamata Banerjee in an alleged ration scam, on Sunday and Monday respectively.

Sources in the ED said the family members of Mallick were asked to furnish documents related to their assets as the investigators found suspicious transactions while following the footprint of money-trail in the ration scam.

"Bank accounts and assets of Mallick family are under our scanner as we are probing into money laundering aspect in the ration scam case. We are investigating the origin of money deposited in the accounts of the minister's relatives," said an ED officer.

Refusing to disclose the documents that he has given ED, Mallick's brother Debapriya said, "It is the investigating agency which knows everything."

Maratha quota protestors torch bungalow, vehicles of Ajit Pawar MLA

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE Maratha quota protest took an ugly turn on Monday, as protesters burned the houses and offices of elected political leaders and defaced their posters. Maratha Kranti protestors pelted stones at the NCP MLA Ajit Pawar's bungalow and proceeded to set fire to his vehicles and property while chanting slogans.

The protestors also set fire to the offices of BJP leader Jaydutta Kshirsagar and NCP MLA Sandeep Kshirsagar. Additionally, the Beed district BJP president's office was also set ablaze. In Ahmednagar, protestors blackened posters on government buses, including those of PM Narendra Modi, CM Eknath Shinde, and DCMs Devendra Fadnavis.

The protestors also threatened and chanted slogans against BJP Union Minister Narayan Rane and Shiv Sena leader Ramadas Kadam.

CM Eknath Shinde condemned the incidents of house, office, and vehicle burnings, stating that taking the law into one's own hands was unacceptable.

He mentioned that the Maratha community had previously organized a total of 58 peaceful protests in the state without any untoward incidents, but this time, the protests had taken a wrong turn. "The Maratha quota protest went the wrong way, which is not expected. The Maratha community should maintain peace and harmony," Shinde said, adding that if protesters continue to burn the houses and offices, then the Maratha community will lose the sympathy and support of other communities.

PTI

Maratha quota agitators set residence of NCP MLA Prakash Solanke on fire

Shiv Sena (Shinde) Lok Sabha MP Hemant Patil from Hingali submitted his resignation to the Lok Sabha speaker in support of the Maratha community's reservations demand. BJP MLA Laxman Pawar also submitted his MLA resignation to the Maharashtra state assembly Speaker. Maha Vikas Aghadi leaders' delegations met Maharashtra governor Ramesh Bais and apprised him of the worsening situation.

Global acclaim, development across India a result of stable govt: Modi

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

LAYING the foundation stones for several development projects in Mehsana district of Gujarat, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday said the development taking place in the country and the praise it is garnering across the world is "due to a stable government" elected by the people.

"At the root of the rapid development being seen in the country and India's praise in the world [for development] is the power of the public that has given a stable government in the country," Modi asserted while addressing a public rally in Kheralu.

The prime minister, who is on a two-visit to his home state Gujarat, laid the foundation stones for a slew of development projects worth Rs 5,950 crore in Kheralu of Mehsana on Monday, the first-day.

"We have experienced how a stable and majority government in Gujarat continuing for a long time has helped us take one decision after another," Modi said. He said people are well aware that "big development projects and courageous decisions" being taken by the government in the last several years are behind the "rapid growth of Gujarat".

The prime minister further said that the people of Gujarat have already "witnessed the development work" that the rest of the country is experiencing today. "And you know your Narendra bhai, you see me as your own Narendra bhai rather than the prime minister. Whatever resolution Modi takes, he fulfills it," Modi asserted.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi at a public rally in Kheralu, Gujarat, on Monday.

Mentioning the initiatives taken up by Gujarat, the prime minister stated that the state processes 90 per cent of the country's Isabgol, giving it a distinct identity, besides potatoes, carrots, mango, amla, pomegranate, guava, and lemon as now developing agricultural produce.

Modi underscored the "supply of tap water to every home" and the Gujarat water conservation project, which took the form of the country's Jal Jeevan Mission.

Highlighting Gujarat tourism, he mentioned the world-famous Kutch Rann Utsav –a winter carnival festival–and a visit to Dhordo village of Kutch which was recently recognised as the best tourist village in the world.

"Centre has developed many places in Gujarat under the heritage circuit project at a cost of Rs 1,000 crore", Modi said giving the example of Rani Ki Bav [stepwell] which witnesses a footfall of more than 3 lakh tourists every year.

"An unprecedented work of linking our heritage with development is being taken in the country today. These will further strengthen our resolve to build a developed India," Modi added.

Change in weather pattern cause of worry in Himalayas

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

CLIMATE change in Uttarakhand has become a significant concern for scientists, primarily due to shifting weather patterns and rising temperatures. These changes are causing the rapid melting of glaciers in the region, leading to an expansion of Bhilangana Lake.

To address this issue, scientists from the Wadia Institute of Himalayan Geology are diligently monitoring the lake round the clock.

They are utilising satellite technology to gather information and pre-empt any unforeseen developments that may arise in the future.

Dr Kalachand Sain, the director of the Wada Institute, said that the Moraine dam, composed of debris left behind by moving glaciers, poses a constant threat to the lake.

To ensure its safety, researchers are also examining other aspects of the lake.

Dr Sain emphasised the need for constant vigilance, as an increase in the lake's water volume could jeopardise the stability of the moraine wall. Given the challenging terrain of the region, satellite monitoring has proven to be the most practical solution.

Recent climatic shifts have amplified concerns about Bhilangana Lake. Scientists foresee a 0.5-degree temperature rise in the next decade, which will further accelerate glacier melting.

Uttarakhand's Himalayan region boasts around a thousand glaciers and numerous lakes nestled within them. Monitoring these lakes is crucial, as a similar situation in 2013 resulted in a catastrophic breach of the Chaurabari glacier lake in Kedarghati. The expanding size of Bhilangana Lake is indeed a cause for worry, according to the scientists.

In their research at the Wadia Institute, scientists have uncovered alarming statistics. Himalayan glaciers have been vanishing at a rate 65 percent faster since 2010 than in the previous decade.

This accelerated loss of ice cover is primarily attributed to global warming. Furthermore, the reduction in ice cover is expected to have severe consequences, particularly regarding the availability of freshwater for downstream communities.

In summary, the impact of climate change on Uttarakhand is a matter of grave concern for scientists. The rapid melting of glaciers, exemplified by the expansion of Bhilangana Lake, is a worrying trend.

The Wadia Institute's continuous monitoring, facilitated by satellite technology, is essential to mitigate potential disasters. The urgent need for such vigilance is underscored by the escalating rate of glacier disappearance and its repercussions on freshwater resources.

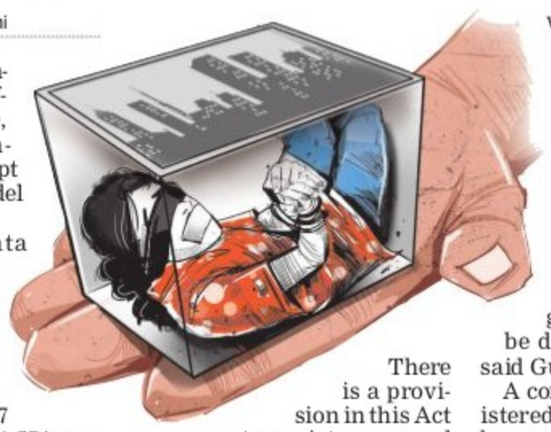
J'khand likely to adopt Tamil Nadu model to prevent human trafficking

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

TO check rampant incidents of human trafficking in the state, Jharkhand government is likely to adopt Tamil Nadu (TN) model very soon.



According to data available with the state government out of the 656 cases registered with different police stations in Jharkhand between January 2017 and December 2022, 1,574 people have fallen victims of human trafficking.

In such a situation, Jharkhand government is mulling on adopting Tamil Nadu model as a permanent solution to this problem.

There is an Act in Tamil Nadu – The Tamil Nadu Manual Works Regulation of Employment and Conditions of Works Act 1982, under which, 68 types of manual labors have been defined including domestic work.

There is a provision in this Act to register manual workers along with domestic workers and also mentions setting up a welfare board for workers and also act talks about the rights of workers.

According to Director General (CID) Anurag Gupta, the idea was floated recently during a review meeting in connection with human trafficking chaired by Chief Minister Hemant Soren.

"A meeting, chaired by Chief Minister Hemant Soren was held recently in which an idea was floated to adopt the Tamil Nadu model to curb human trafficking in Jharkhand under which a welfare board will be created and registration of migrant labourers will be done at the Panchayat level so that proper monitoring of the movement of the migrating labourers could be done on regular basis," said Gupta.

A complete data base of registered migrant labourers will be prepared enabling the state government to have village-wise data on how many members of each family work outside the state, he added.

Gupta, however, cleared that as of now, only idea has been floated and a final decision will be taken at the government level. "The Chief Minister is quite concerned about the increasing incidents of human trafficking in the state and hence he had called a meeting to discuss how the menace could be stopped in the state," said the DG (CID).

ISRAEL TANKS BREACH GAZA CITY, ARMY RAMPS UP ASSAULT

Concern mounts for hospitals as Israel expands its military assault deeper into the north

GAZA STRIP

ISRAELI tanks advanced into the fringes of Gaza City Monday, witnesses said, as it ramped up its war on Hamas saying it killed dozens of militants in hundreds of strikes.

"We have hit more than 600 targets in the past 24 hours," a military spokesperson said, up from 450 the previous day, with Hamas militants also reporting "heavy fighting" in northern Gaza. "Dozens" of tanks entered Zaytun district on the southern fringes of Gaza City, cutting a key road from the north to the south of the war-torn Palestinian territory, witnesses said. "They have cut the Salahedin road and are firing at any vehicle that tries to go along it," said one resident who didn't give his name, but said they were present on two sections of the road.

Located on Gaza City's southern edge, Zaytun—which normally has a population of over 130,000 —is the city's largest district, but the area where the tanks were spotted is relatively sparsely populated. Dozens of buildings west of the Salahedin road have already been demolished by Israeli strikes in recent days.

Palestinians leave their homes following Israeli bombardment on Gaza City on Monday | AFP

Israeli strikes have also razed at least 10 high-rise buildings in Tal al-Hawwa, a district in the city's southwest, and damaged a Turkish-funded cancer treatment hospital in the same area, its director Sobhi Skeik said

Israel has on several occasions warned the 1.1 million people living in northern Gaza, including Gaza City, to head south to avoid its military strikes as it pushes ahead with a mission to "destroy" the territory's Hamas rulers.

Although huge numbers have left in recent weeks, tens of thousands more are believed to be still in the zone.

Since Friday, Israeli forces have stepped up their ground offensive as part of the military response to the October 7 Hamas attacks. The health ministry in Hamas-run Gaza says more than 8,000 people, mainly civilians, more than half of them children, have since been killed in Israeli air and ground strikes.

According to UN, all 10 hospitals in northern Gaza have received evacuation orders—despite sheltering thousands of patients and about 117,000 of the displaced. Among those being treated are intensive care patients, infants and elderly people on life support systems. The head of WHO said calls to evacuate Al-Quds hospital in Gaza City were "deeply concerning". AFP

Near-riot at Russian airport over arrival of plane from Tel Aviv

MOSCOW

RUSSIAN President Vladimir Putin called a meeting of security and law enforcement officials on Monday, the day after a mob stormed the airport in the southern region of Dagestan after a flight from Israel landed there.

Hundreds of angry men, some carrying banners with antisemitic slogans, rushed onto the tarmac of the airport in Makhachkala, the capital of the predominantly Muslim region, on Sunday night, looking for Israeli passengers on the flight from Tel Aviv, according to Russian news reports.

More than 20 people were injured, with two in critical condition, Dagestan's Health Ministry said. The injured included police officers and civilians, it said.

At least 60 people were detained in the unrest, the local Interior Ministry said. It was not clear if charges were filed against any of them, but Russia's Investigative Committee said it opened a criminal probe on charges of organizing mass unrest.

Moscow blames Ukraine for the mess

Russia's state news agency RIA Novosti cited Dagestan Gov Sergei Melikov as saying that the unrest was coordinated in a Telegram channel run by "traitors" based in Ukraine, with the goal of destabilising Dagestan and fueling unrest

Russia has issued carefully calibrated criticism of both sides in the war between Israel and Hamas, a conflict that is giving Moscow new opportunities to advance its role as a global power broker and challenge Western efforts to isolate it over Ukraine.

The crowd that rushed onto the tarmac Sunday night surrounded the jet belonging to the Russian carrier Red Wings with seemingly little resistance from the police, Russian news outlets reported.

Video and photos that circulated on social media showed some in the crowd waving Palestinian flags, and some trying to overturn a police car. Others held handwritten banners saying, "Child killers are not welcome in Dagestan" and "We're against Jewish refugees."

Putin's spokesman Dmitry Peskov said that the security meeting will discuss "attempts by the West to use the events in the Middle East to divide the (Russian) society."

Lanka renews its Indian Oil Corp petroleum licence

COLOMBO

THE Sri Lankan government has renewed the petroleum products licence granted to Lanka IOC, the local subsidiary of Indian Oil Corporation, for another 20 years, officials said on Monday.

The licence originally issued in 2003 was to expire in January 2024. This will allow Lanka IOC to continue its retail operations on the debt-trapped island nation until January 22, 2044.

The licence renewal letter was handed over by President Ranil Wickremesinghe to Dipak Das the Managing Director of LIOC late last week, Aseem Bhargav, the Chief Financial Officer of LIOC said.

The government has renewed the petroleum products licence granted to Lanka IOC, the local subsidiary of Indian Oil Corporation, for another 20 years, the LIOC officials said.

"The licence enables LIOC to import, export, store, transport, distribute, sell and supply petrol diesel, heavy diesel, furnace oil, kerosene, Naphtha and other mineral petroleum including premium petrol and premium diesel."

LIOC holds around 20% of the market share in the auto fuel segment in Sri Lanka. When Sri Lanka plunged into an economic crisis with no forex to import petroleum products, the LIOC operation became crucial in the energy sector. It operates over 200 retail outlets throughout the island nation. PTI

Israeli female soldier rescued from Gaza; Hamas releases hostage video

GAZA STRIP

A female Israeli soldier was rescued from captivity in the Gaza Strip, the army said on Monday, following an operation in the Hamas-run Palestinian territory.

The release of soldier Ori Megidish was "secured during a ground operation after being kidnapped by Hamas on October 7", the army said. "The soldier was medically checked, is doing well, and has met with her family."

The office of Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu released a photograph of Megidish in which she is seen surrounded with her family members.

Earlier on Monday, Hamas released a video showing three of the more than 230 people Israel says were seized by the militants in the October 7 attacks which triggered an all-out war in Gaza.

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu denounced the anguished images of the three women as "cruel psychological propaganda" and vowed to "do everything to bring home all the kidnapped and missing people". The Palestinian Islamist group referred to the women in the 76-second video as "Zionist detainees" but it was not immediately possible to verify their identities. Sitting on plastic chairs against a white tile wall, one of the women urges Israel's Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu to agree a prisoner exchange for the release of all captives.

Speaking in Hebrew, she becomes very agitated and starts shouting, almost screaming by the end, as the other two sitting either side of her remain silent. The hostages were seized when hundreds of Hamas gunmen stormed across the border into southern Israel and attacked kibbutz communities, towns and military bases. Their ages range between a few months and more than 80 years old.

Authorities believe they are being held in a giant network of underground tunnels built by Hamas in the besieged territory. AFP

Oil prices could reach 'uncharted waters'

The World Bank reported oil prices could be pushed into "uncharted waters" if violence between Israel and Hamas widens, which could result in increased food prices. World Bank's Commodity Markets Outlook found while the effects on oil prices should be limited if the conflict doesn't expand, the outlook "would darken if the conflict were to escalate."

Sebi order against Goenka quashed

SAT order paves way for Goenka becoming managing director of Zee-Sony merged entity

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

IN a relief to Puneet Goenka, the Securities Appellate Tribunal (SAT) has quashed a Sebi order barring him from holding any key managerial position (KMP) in Zee Entertainment Enterprises Ltd (ZEEL) and in the merged entity of ZEEL and Sony Pictures Networks.

The order paves the way for Goenka becoming the Managing Director (MD) of the Zee-Sony merged entity.

The appellate tribunal in its order on Monday rejected Securities and Exchange Board of India's (Sebi's) argument that if Goenka continued as Managing Director in ZEEL, it would impede or tamper with the investigation into alleged misappropriation of funds.

The tribunal also reiterated that allegations of diversion of funds by Puneet Goenka have not been established yet, and that Sebi investigation on these charges could extend beyond the stipulated time. Therefore, it feels it would be harsh and unwarranted to restrain Goenka from holding any positions in ZEEL or the merged entity of ZEEL and Sony Pictures.

The tribunal also noted that 99.97% of the shareholders of ZEEL had reposed complete faith in Puneet Goenka as recent as 2022 to continue as Managing Director and Chief Executive Officer of the merged entity between ZEEL and Sony.

In its 14 August 2023 order, the SEBI had barred Goenka from becoming the Managing Director at the merged entity of Zee Entertainment Enterprises Ltd (ZEEL) and Sony Pictures Networks India. The order also barred Goenka and his father Subash Chandra from holding the post of director or KMP in ZEEL, Zee Media Corporation Ltd. Zee Studios Ltd (a wholly-owned subsidiary of ZEEL), Zee Akaash News Pvt Ltd. (a wholly-owned subsidiary of Zee Media Corporation Ltd).

The case pertains to allegations made by three independent directors of ZEEL that promoters Subash Chandra and Puneet Goenka facilitated diversion of Rs 200 crore from the company to seven related entities. Sebi in its order on 14 August had said that it would investigate the allegations, but continuation of two at key managerial positions may impede the investigation.

However, the appellate tribunal in its Monday order argued that the entire investigation is based on bank account statements which cannot be tampered with by the appellant (Puneet Goenka) and therefore, the question of impeding in the investigation does not arise.

RELIEF FOR PUNEET GOENKA

SAT quashes Sebi order barring Puneet Goenka from holding key managerial positions in merged entity of Zee and Sony

Appellate tribunal rejects Sebi's contention that Goenka at key position may hamper investigation

Tribunal says entire investigation is based on bank account statements, which cannot be tampered with by Goenka

Goenka and Subsah Chandra have been investigated for an alleged fund diversion of ₹200 cr from ZEEL

Sebi had also barred Goenka and Chandra from holding KMPs in ZEEL, Zee Media Corporation, Zee Studios and Zee Akaash News

Ola and Porter score zero in Fairwork rating for gig workers

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

OLA and Porter have scored zero out of 10 points on the Fairwork India Ratings 2023 in terms of fair work for gig workers.

This is the third year in a row that Ola has scored zero.

Of 12 ecommerce platforms, this year, no platform scored more than six out of the maximum of ten points.

BigBasket topped the fairness table with 6 points, followed by BluSmart, Swiggy, Urban Company, Zomato, Zepto, Flipkart, Amazon Flex. Both Dunzo and Uber have scored one point each.

Last year, Urban Company scored seven points and topped the ranking, followed by BigBasket with 6 points.

Also, this year, the Fairwork India team has included a ride-hailing platform aggregator that owns electric vehicles

BluSmart in the ratings. According to the report, BigBasket, Flipkart and Urban Company were the only platforms with a minimum wage policy to ensure that all their workers earn at least the hourly local minimum wage after factoring in work-related costs.

Fairwork assessed platforms against five principles - Fair Pay, Fair Conditions, Fair Contracts, Fair Management, and Fair Representation.

Despite the rise in platform worker collectivisation, over the past four years, there was insufficient evidence from any platform to show a willingness to recognise a collective body of workers.

The report said, no platform could be awarded a point for Fair Representation this year.

"In a year that has seen the formulation of a significant regulation based on inputs from workers, [The Rajasthan Platform Based Gig workers (Registration and Welfare) Act, 2023], we hope that highlighting the experiences of workers will point to the structural changes that platforms, consumers and the State alike will need to undertake if the platform economy is to offer its workers decent work," said Professors Balaji Parthasarathy and Janaki Srinivasan, the Principal Investigators of the team.

Cayman Islands' exit from FATF grey list to boost FDI inflow in India

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

The Cayman Islands' removal from the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) grey list is expected to have a positive impact on global private equity funds seeking to invest in India, say experts.

It was placed on the grey list by the FATF, a global money laundering and terrorist financing watchdog, in February 2021, which led to increased monitoring of the region.

The FATF, an inter-governmental agency, recently removed Cayman Island, Panama, Jordan, and Albania from the grey list. As per experts, several US and European funds prefer establishing holding companies and funds in the Cayman Islands for investments in India. However, the RBI restricts approvals for shareholding in NBFCs from grey list jurisdictions. Cayman Islands' removal from the grey list is expected to prompt the RBI to consider favorably and approve shareholders from the Cayman Islands, which is seen as a positive development for global PE funds based there.

> With the removal of Cayman Island from grey list, investments in India can pick up not only in financial services sectors like NBFC, AIF etc, but in other sectors as well
> Yashesh Ashar, partner, Buta shah & Co

As per Manoj Purohit, Partner & Leader – Financial Services Tax, Tax & Regulatory Services, Cayman Island has been one of the preferred jurisdictions by the foreign investors, and about 400 foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) are domiciled from Cayman Island.

"Removal of Cayman Island from FATF grey list will reduce the compliance burden for such funds, resulting in reduction of cost of funding and compliance costs," says Purohit. Funds from FATF non-compliant countries are subject to not only additional documentation requirements but also lowered limits for disclosure of Beneficial ownership.

Yashesh Ashar, partner, Buta shah & Co, said, "With the removal of Cayman Island from grey list, investments in India can pick up not only in financial services sectors like NBFC, AIF etc, but in other sectors as well."

As per the Department for Promotion of Industries and Internal Trade (DPIIT), Cayman Island is the 8th largest contributor of foreign direct investment in India with over $15 billion investments coming since 2000.

Pak coach's take on woeful campaign

Kolkata: Pakistan head coach Grant Bradburn blamed their woeful WC campain so far on "foreign" Indian conditions and their lack of familiarity with the venues. "This tournament is on foreign conditions for us. None of our players have played here before. Every venue is a new one, including this one (Kolkata)."

There is a lot to play for. As you know, we have to win to be able to qualify for the Champions Trophy. That's an important target I think we can set at this moment and to do that we have to win.
— Shakib Al Hasan, Bangladesh captain

Conquest of happiness

India in a zone of their own at home as they continue winning march with absolute ease

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN

IN a team sport, winning can be very contagious. It acts like chicken soup for the soul. A warm hug on a cold day. An IV of dopamine hooked to the veins. An oxytocin to build and develop relationships. A rising tide that lifts all boats.

This is the tidal wave that's sweeping the Indian team currently. The positive energy is hard to miss. The competition for winning the fielding medal has become appointment streaming. Days before the World Cup began, the one question was how would they treat pressure and the weight of expectations? Were they going to be consumed by it? Or were they going to embrace it?

After 25 days since their first World Cup-based training session, six matches and one short break post the New Zealand match at Dharamsala, one thing is clear. They are enjoying the ride. They have embraced the joy of playing at home rather than allow pressure to eat them.

In psychology, there is something called the challenge mindset and the threat mindset. The former is healthier while the latter can have debilitating consequences.

Divya Jain, head of Psychological Services at Fortis healthcare, explains. "For a lot of people, playing at home can be a great energiser," Jain, who advises Indian Olympians among other athletes, tells this daily. "There's a lot of energy and if you are able to channelise that in the right way, it can boost confidence. But that same energy can also lead to overthinking... It's good if you adopt a challenge mindset and not a threat mindset. If you are able to adopt a challenge mindset, then you can play even better."

Irrespective of what will happen with this campaign going forward (random factors like luck notwithstanding), this side has played with joy and has spread joy wherever they have played. Chennai. New Delhi. Ahmedabad. Pune. Dharamsala. North. West. South. They have embraced the challenge of lifting the mood music. Ergo, they have been even better than the sum of their parts. It's funny because you normally wouldn't associate this phrase to one of the two favourites coming into the tournament. But that doesn't mean it can't be true. They haven't had a settled XI (all 15 have featured in at least one game while only eight of the contingent have been ever present) thanks to injuries or illnesses but that hasn't altered the rhythm of the side.

Some of that is down to what they have done behind the scenes. While 'team sports can be very positive for mental health because there is already camaraderie and support,' according to Jain, Rohit & Co. have gone in with a clear and structured plan of what they will do and when. "When there is an event going on for a long time, it's important to a) know how you are going to be spending that time and b) able to structure it as much as possible," Jain explains. This is what happened post the New Zealand game. The tranquil locale of Himachal Pradesh was the ideal getaway spot to shutdown for a day. Virat Kohli was off to an Ashram.

There's of course the much talked about fielding medal. It's an award given by the fielding coach, T Dilip, to the best fielder on the day. After picking up really good catches, the likes of Ravindra Jadeja and Shreyas Iyer have celebrated with imaginary medals on the field of play. After some ordinary fielding displays, Dilip instituted that for the World Cup and it's already resulted in some highlight-reel worthy catches.

Here's Jain as to why these things matter. "When you are in a team, the idea is to encourage and just push each other to actually be the best," she explains. "It's healthy competition, it's all about making sure that every role is given the same importance. Not just bowling or batting. Every person, every role so if you are able to reward things that's not been rewarded as much as in the past, that's also a real motivator."

KL Rahul, who won this 'award' for a second time on Sunday, was intimate with it before the England game. "Everyone is in a happy state of mind," he had said. "We know that whenever we cross the boundary line, there will be pressure. But the best thing we can do is outside the field, still try and enjoy ourselves and try to be as calm as possible. ...the fielding medal videos that you are watching, it is fun for us also."

Most modern football coaches have stopped using the term substitutes. Instead, they have begun using the term finishers. There's something like that happening with this Indian side. They have a squad of 15 to pick from and all of them are seen as equals. "If you are able to use more positive language, it can have an impact on the confidence of a person," Jain expanded. Shami has played in only two games but you can see the positivity in his outlook. "If your team is performing, your boys are moving in a rhythm, then I don't think you should feel guilty (about) sitting outside," he had said after his man-of-the-match fifer against the Black Caps. In several other campaigns, players who weren't part of the theoretical 'first XI', have found it hard to be part of the 'team'. Not this iteration.

Because of favourites tag, this team will be judged by what happens in the knockouts. But they have given themselves every chance of creating a memory that will outlast this generation and inspire next generations. Even otherwise, watching this team is like being caught in a warm, fuzzy spell. And that's all you can ask for.

Spirited Afghanistan slay yet another ex-champs

KALYANI MANGALE @ Pune

THE last time Afghanistan and Sri Lanka faced each other in the ODIs, it was an electrifying environment at the Gaddafi Stadium. The match went down the wire, as Sri Lanka came on top by just two runs in front of the neutral but passionate crowds in Lahore. The confusion about the Net Run Rate that prevented Afghanistan from making it to the Super Four was the talk of the town and the dejected faces of the Afghan players told the heartbreaking story. Exactly a month from that day, a new challenge was waiting for both teams in India as the 2023 World Cup began in Ahmedabad.

A lot has changed since then, Afghanistan before their fixture against Sri Lanka in Pune had four points on the board, an unbelievable result for a team that could not win a single match in the previous edition. Their Team Mentor and former India International Ajay Jadeja believes it is no secret how talented this group of players really is. "I don't have to make them believe that they are equals. They believe in themselves. The

Fazalhaq Farooqi during the match against Sri Lanka on Monday | AFP

IPL auction tells them how good they are," Jadeja told reporters in Delhi ahead of Afghanistan's match against India.

Even after defeats against the likes of Bangladesh, India, and New Zealand, Afghanistan never lost their spirit. Well aware of their strengths, match by match they improved the batting to provide cushion to their bowling might. "They are all grown up and living up to the expectations in the World Cup," Lalchand Rajput, Afghanistan's former head coach told this daily. "Their spin department is the best in the world. The medium-pacers have improved and they are good now. The only thing they have to do now is to get a good score. If they get 270-290 on a little bit of a helpful wicket, I think they will make life miserable for others," he mentioned. That is exactly what the Afghan unit did after their loss to Bangladesh in the tournament opener, courtesy of a batting collapse. Even when it didn't come together against the mighty Indian batting, where Rohit Sharma smashed a record-breaking ton, the batting unit learned lessons from the defeat as Hashmatullah Shahidi and Azmatullah Omarzai added 128 runs for the fourth wicket against Sri Lanka. It was ticking, but not at one time.

"I used to tell them this all the time that they need to get that consistency right because they would be hot one day and cold the other. But now things are changing. They can upset anybody," Rajput predicted before Pakistan tie in Chennai.

With that win against Pakistan, the Afghans added another feather to their cap as they surpassed their previous best in the WCs. With the Sri Lanka challenge waiting in Pune, the question remained the same. Can they keep that consistency? Like Rajput mentioned the spin attack and the developing pace unit, didn't let Sri Lanka settle in the innings and bowled them out for 241. Now came the part where Afghanistan had the opportunity to prove that they have been improving day-by-day in the format.

After Gurbaz, or the entertainer as Rajput calls him, fell early, Zadran and Rehmat Shah kept the innings going even when they could not hit a boundary for almost 10 overs. The 'Game Sense' and patience prevailed. Half-tons from Shah, captain Hashmatullah Shahidi, and Azmatullah Omarzai took the venom out of the depleted Sri Lanka attack that could not hold to their chances as Afghanistan registered their third victory.

After beating Pakistan, Afghanistan thanked the crowd with a victory lap at Chepauk, here too they thanked the crowd with another lap.

Brief scores: Sri Lanka 241 in 49.3 ovs (Nissanka 46, Mendis 39; Farooqi 4/34) lost to Afghanistan 242/3 in 45.2 ovs (Azmatullah 73 n.o, Rahmat 62, Hashmatullah 58 n.o).

Inzy steps down as PCB chief selector

AGENCIES @ Lahore

THE legendary Inzamam-ul-Haq on Monday resigned as the chairman of the national selection committee after Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB) initiated an inquiry to probe if his association with a company that manages a number of national team players pertains to conflict of interest.

The PCB has formed a five-member committee to probe Inzamam's role in the company — Yazoo International — where he shares the same agent who manages captain Babar Azam, pacer Shaheen Shah Afridi and wicketkeeper-batter Mohammad Rizwan.

The result is that in the middle of World Cup, Inzamam was forced to send his resignation even as he maintained that his association with agent and partner Talha Rehmani has never affected or compromised his decision-making as a selector. "I have sent my resignation as I feel the role of a chief selector is that of a judge and I thought it is best to step aside till this inquiry is going on," Inzamam told a news channel.

Depicting cricket's glorious past, Nehru Stadium stands tall in Pune

KALYANI MANGALE @ Pune

IF you travel to Pune city by bus and get off at 'Swargate', the city's primary bus depot, you are just five minutes away from the venue that has witnessed plenty of cricket history. At first sight, you won't even realise that there is a cricket ground inside those big walls. Today, Jawaharlal Nehru Stadium is a quaint place on Tilak Road, telling stories of cricket's glorious past in the city.

Located just next to Sarasbaug, one of the most beautiful gardens in the city, which also has the famous Ganesh Temple, the Nehru Stadium was built to host international cricket matches in the city. The dream took off when Pune Municipal Corporation (PMC) received the Town Hall Committee's 9-acre land and The Club of Maharashtra's 5-acre land on a lease basis for 99 years for the construction of the stadium. It was such a big deal back in 1965 that Maharashtra's then chief minister Vasantrao Naik came to lay the foundation stone of the stadium on October 3, 1965.

Four years later, when Bill Lawry-led Australia visited India for the Test series, Pune's first international cricket stadium was inaugurated. "If you see, there is a board at the ground that says me and Bill opened the ground," Chandu Borde, then captain of the West Zone team that faced Australia in the practice match at the same venue, told this daily. Borde, an allrounder on and off the field, has another special bond with the stadium. After retiring, the Pune-born cricketer turned curator at this very venue from 1984. "It's a beautiful outfield and pitch to work on. The black soil pitch offers everything you would need as a cricketer. The sitting arrangement for fans (25,000 capacity) is also amazing, so in all it's a beautiful stadium," he added.

Jawaharlal Nehru Stadium in Pune also hosted WC ties in 1987 & 1996 | EXPRESS

With all these positive aspects, it was not surprising when India co-hosted World Cups in 1987 and later in 1996, the Nehru Stadium hosted a match on both occasions.

While the '87 contest was a one-sided affair between England and Sri Lanka where the former came on top as winners, Borde still remembers the 1996 clash, dubbed as one of the biggest upsets in WC history. "If there is one match I remember it was between Kenya and West Indies," the veteran remembers. In what was a monumental task, Maurice Odumbe-led Kenya comprehensively defeated two-time champions West Indies, to register their first-ever win in the format. "Some of the commentators were talking (negative) about the wicket before the match, but I think they were all quiet after the stunning result," he reminisced about the good old days.

Nehru Stadium's love affair with WCs didn't stop with men's cricket, as it hosted two fixtures in the 1997 Women's WC. Not just hosting the big tournaments, the stadium administrative staff helped budding women cricketers hone their skills from the very beginning. One of those was the former India captain Shubhangi Kulkarni, who even has one of the gates named after her at the stadium. "I consider myself fortunate to have had support from the Nehru Stadium's administrative staff. During those days most of the players could barely afford to pay for the facilities and we were granted access to it at a nominal fee and sometimes even without any charges," she remembered.

"I spent the peak years of my cricket career honing my skills at Nehru Stadium. Born and raised in Pune, it had always been a cherished dream to represent my country on the international stage at this very stadium, amidst my home crowd. I can vividly recall the pitches which were known to be what we called a "Paata" (flat) wicket favoring the batters. As an all-rounder, I relished batting on these wickets. However, as a right-arm legspinner, turning the ball was a challenge and I had to use variations to be effective. I enjoyed the learning experience," said Kulkarni, who fulfilled her dream of playing in front of the home crowd in 1984.

With every international cricket match in Pune being hosted at the MCA Stadium in Gahunje since 2012, the Nehru Stadium might have lost its relevance, but still holds a lot of memories for generations of cricket lovers in the city.

Pak, B'desh looking to snap losing streak

PAKISTAN WILL TAKE ON BANGLADESH IN A DO-OR-DIE CLASH IN KOLKATA ON TUESDAY. A LOOK...

ALL BUT OVER FOR BABAR & CO

Babar Azam and Co have just four points from six matches and they can add a maximum of six more to touch 10 by the end of league stage. Even if they win the remaining matches, they need multiple favourable results to make it to the semifinal, which looks highly unlikely. Despite that, the 1992 champions would be desperate to snap their four-match losing streak when they take the field against Bangladesh.

BANGLADESH'S SORRY STATE OF AFFAIRS

Bangladesh started their campaign with a win over Afghanistan but lost the track thereafter suffering five defeats on a trot — the latest one against the Netherlands. Batters have been their biggest letdown so far as the team has failed to post big totals. "You can say that it's the worst World Cup without any doubt," skipper Shakib Al Hasan had admitted after their 87-run loss to Dutch on Saturday.

WILL FAKHAR REPLACE IMAM?

Pakistan opener Fakhar Zaman, who suffered a knee injury ahead of team's clash against Australia, is said to have recovered fully and may replace Imam-ul-Haq, who has scored only a fifty in the last six games. Their vice-captain, Shadab Khan, however, is unexpected to get fit which means Usama Mir could get another opportunity in the playing XI.

ASC: Shooter Anish wins Oly quota

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

ANISH Bhanwala became the latest shooter from India to secure an Olympic quota on Monday.

Competing in the men's 25m rapid fire pistol in the ongoing Asian Championships in Changwon, South Korea, Anish was on point from the word go and was rewarded with a bronze medal and the all-important Paris Olympics berth.

This is sort of a redemption for Anish, who had missed out on the Tokyo Olympics.

In Changwon, he had done half the job 24 hours earlier by finishing second in the first day of qualification (precision stage). However, he still had plenty to do on Monday. The Indian started with a perfect series in the rapid fire stage, scoring a 100 before going on to secure a spot in the six-man final. That also confirmed a quota as all the other five finalists were not eligible for the same. India have won 12 quotas so far. Having ticked the primary objective, Anish seemed relaxed in the final. A perfect fifth series promised an exciting finish. Could he go on to put the icing on the cake? However, Anish faltered in the next series, making two big misses. But despite that he had the chance to redeem himself instantly. Tied at 28 with Dai Yoshioka of Japan after the seventh series, the two were involved in a shoot-off.

Yoshioka was the first to go but he could only manage 2 hits out of 5 shots. Pressure was No 1 enemy yet again as Anish responded with just 1 and was knocked out. 2022 world champ Lee Gunhyeok went on to seal the gold with a tally of 34.

India beat China 2-1 in women's ACT hockey

AGENCIES @ Ranchi

THE Indian hockey team survived some anxious moments to avenge its Asian Games loss with a 2-1 win over China and continue its rampaging run at the women's Asian Champions Trophy here on Monday.

Deepika (15th) and Salima Tete (26th) sounded the board for the hosts, while Zhong Jiaqi scored in the 41st minute for China.

China had spoilt India's bid to earn a direct qualification for the Tokyo Olympics after beating them in the semifinals of the Asian Games in Hangzhou last month.

But on Monday, India returned the favours in their third group stage match to stay atop the standing. India started on an attacking note, trying to make inroads from left to right but the Chinese put up a defensive wall to thwart any attempt by the hosts. Local star Salima Tete produced a stunning reverse hit in the 25th from the circle to put India 2-0 ahead.

IN VITRO FERTILISATION

BUNDLE OF JOY NOT JUST A DREAM

HEMANT KUMAR ROUT @ Bhubaneswar

AFTER trying to naturally conceive for a year, 45-year-old Swagatika (name changed) and her husband sought help from a fertility clinic. As the couple had already lost a teenage son, they did not take risk. Advanced age and diminished ovarian reserve was found to be the cause of her infertility. She agreed to undergo in vitro fertilisation (IVF) with donor oocytes and conceived in the first attempt to successfully deliver a healthy baby.

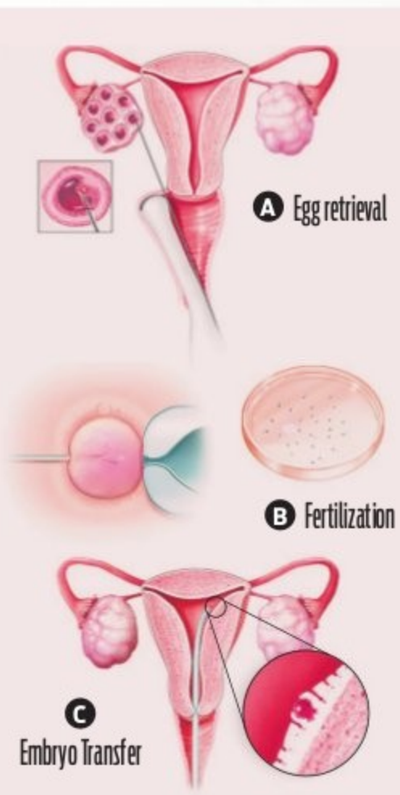
IVF is a process of fertilisation where an egg is combined with sperm in vitro (outside the human body) in a laboratory. The process involves monitoring and stimulating a woman's ovulatory process, removing an ovum (egg) from her ovaries and letting sperm fertilise them in a culture medium.

Invented initially for providing fertility solutions to women who suffer from blocked or dysfunctional fallopian tubes, it is now prescribed to women who are unable to conceive due to various reasons. Infertility, which affects approximately 15% of Indian couples, is viewed as a major problem with far reaching consequences. Myriad causes include late marriages which are becoming the norm, stressful lifestyle, obesity, junk food intake, smoking, alcoholism and drug addiction.

There has been a significant rise in infertility rate in Indians in the last two decades. The top five causes of infertility in women include polycystic ovarian syndrome (PCOS), endometriosis, abnormal male factor, tubal blockages and ovulation problems.

IVF is the most effective fertility treatment and one of the widely known types of assisted reproductive technology (ART). It involves a sophisticated set of techniques that are used to aid in the conception of a child, aid fertility or prevent genetic abnormalities.

Head of the Centre for Human Reproduction (CHR), the infertility and IVF unit of Institute of Medical Sciences and SUM Hospital Dr Sujata Pradhan said IVF works by using a combination of medicines and surgical procedures to help sperm fertilise an egg and help the fertilised egg implant in the uterus. "Mature eggs are extracted from the ovaries and fertilised with sperm in a laboratory. IVF can be done using a couple's own eggs and sperm or it may involve eggs, sperm or embryos from a known or unknown donor. In some cases, it is also done for gestational carriers (who have an embryo implanted in the uterus)," she said.



When IVF is considered an option

● If both fallopian tubes get damaged or blocked ● Ovulation disorders ● Endometriosis ● Uterine fibroids ● Previous birth control surgery ● Issues with sperm ● Unexplained infertility ● Genetic disorder ● Preserving fertility due health conditions. Cancer treatments such as radiation or chemotherapy can harm fertility

Treatment options

Success rate depends on many factors. These include the ages and medical issues of people they treat, as well as the fertility clinic's treatment approaches. Screening tests before starting IVF will include:

● Blood tests to find out how many eggs are available in the body and can help predict how your ovaries will respond to fertility medicines ● Semen analysis ● Infectious disease screening ● Tests to determine depth of the uterus and what technique will most likely work well when one or more actual embryos are inserted ● Uterine exam

"Distinctive trends have emerged among patients, reflecting a significant shift in societal perceptions. This transformation has given rise to notable patterns, with IT couples, professionals from diverse backgrounds and individuals in remarriages or opting for parenthood later in life increasingly turning to IVF. Delay in family planning has become a prominent factor driving advanced-age couples towards fertility treatment," said Dr Rabeeh Valiyathodi, consultant at Fertility Clinic, KIMS Health, Thiruvananthapuram.

The procedure

Proper diagnosis and treatment are paramount to get success in IVF. Since the birth of the first IVF baby in 1978, the process has undergone many modifications. In conventional IVF, the female undergoes controlled ovarian hyperstimulation with gonadotropin hormones. The procedure involves six major steps - stimulating the ovary, egg recovery, sperm retrieval, fertilisation and insemination, embryo culture and embryo transfer.

For stimulating the ovary, the patient is given hormone-based fertility medicines to encourage her ovaries to produce more eggs than usual. During each ovulation cycle, a woman's ovary typically produces one egg. Transvaginal ultrasound images and routine blood tests are used to continuously track the development of eggs after the medications are administered.

Once the eggs develop, the process of harvesting eggs is done under anaesthesia. The eggs and associated fluid are individually extracted from each follicle using a needle that is connected to a suction apparatus. If any woman is unable to produce eggs, donor eggs are utilised. Prior to retrieval of eggs, semen samples need to be collected under supervision. It can be collected on the same day or ahead of time and frozen. Dr Akhila Ayyagari from Oasis Fertility in Banjara Hills said the first step in IVF is taking fertility medications to help the ovary produce quality eggs that are mature and ready for fertilisation. Apart from providing advanced treatments for various fertility challenges, the focus must be on improving the quality of eggs and sperm through a variety of interventions, leading to higher success rates, especially when pre-genetic testing is involved.

Two common methods are used to fertilise eggs with sperm. In conventional insemination, healthy sperm and mature eggs are mixed and kept in a controlled environment called an incubator. In intracytoplasmic sperm injection (ICSI) method, a single healthy sperm is injected right into each mature egg. Some other procedures are also recommended before embryos are placed in the uterus in certain situations. Assisted hatching is recommended if someone is older and wants to get pregnant, or if she has had past IVF attempts that didn't work. In this process, an embryo hatches from the thin membrane that surrounds it around five to six days after fertilisation. It lets the embryo attach to the lining of the uterus.

Lastly, one to two embryos are transferred in the woman's uterus about three to five days after the eggs are removed and fertilised and once they reach a particular size. Pregnancy is confirmed through blood tests.

"After the embryo is transferred, the patient can go back to normal activities the next day. They are kept under daily shots of progesterone for the first 10 weeks. The hormone makes it easier for the embryo to survive in the uterus," Dr Ayyagari said.

Available facilities

There has been a lot of advancement in treatment of infertility. Patients now have access to a comprehensive range of internationally available facilities, including innovative techniques like preimplantation genetic testing (PGT), time-lapse technology and top-quality ultrasound imaging. These advancements are revolutionising IVF, offering precision and effectiveness in treatment.

Ratan Tata's manager Shantanu Naidu on working with the stalwart, channelising the attention he gets for his work, and life off-duty

Ratan Tata takes a look at Shantanu Naidu's second car

MONIKA MONALISA

BACK in 2014, when he was employed as an automobile design engineer in Pune, Shantanu Naidu's life took a turn for the better when he donned the role of an entrepreneur. Looking back at his career choice, the founder of the startup Goodfellows, which is into services for the elderly, is quite clear that he does not want to change anything in his life. "When I was into automobile engineering, it was an important aspect of my life looking back now. It was necessary because it helped me become the person I am today. It is not something I would have ended up doing," says Naidu, who was in the city to receive an award.

Naidu also became a sensation when he was appointed as the general manager to Ratan Tata, an industrialist and philanthropist. A job profile that probably he himself never thought would become a part of his résumé. Of course, with such a high-profile job comes the attention, which Naidu says he is not quite fond of. "I try to channelise the attention into creating a positive impact for the communities by talking about the right thing or coming up with entrepreneurial startup ideas. So whatever attention I'm getting, instead of just leaving it, I'm trying to use it to generate ideas," says the 30-year-old. His relationship with Tata, a 'friendship that is quite dear', can be seen in the pictures he shares on social media, including Tata taking a look at Naidu's second car.

frankly speaking

Working or being mentored by Tata is definitely not something that everyone has access to. However, Naidu, being the lucky one, says there is no secret he is holding. "It's not that he sat down and taught me something new. Shaan-tnu (as Tata pronounces his name), I want you to remember this lesson. Nobody teaches that way. Neither does he. You have to observe and learn things yourself. Just being open to hearing what people have to say is important. Honestly, there is no new lesson that only I know. If people read about Tata, and the work he does, they have a chance to know what he stands for," explains Naidu, who completed his Bachelor's in Mechanical Engineering from Savitribai Phule Pune University in 2014 and went on to pursue a Masters in Business Administration from Cornell Johnson Graduate School of Management in 2016.

Despite his proximity to stalwarts like Tata, Naidu keeps his life as real as possible while continuing his coffee rituals with friends. And probably, being so approachable makes him quite a favourite among youngsters. This could be seen when many queued up at a quick book signing session, for his recent release, I Came Upon a Lighthouse.

Representing the youth of the country, Naidu feels young people are more inquisitive about what impact they are creating in somebody else's life. "They're definitely more attentive about where they stand in the grand scheme of the world. They are thinking about what impact or change they are leaving behind as they progress through their careers," says Naidu.

It's not that Mr Tata sat me down and taught me something new. You have to observe and learn things yourself. Just being open to hearing what people have to say is important. If people read about him and the work he does, they have a chance to know what he stands for

- Shantanu Naidu, entrepreneur

A SPARK OF AN IDEA

Shantanu Naidu first came to the limelight after a video of him celebrating Ratan Tata's birthday went viral. In 2014, after his graduation from Savitribai Phule Pune University, Naidu landed a job at Tata Elxsi in Pune as an automobile design engineer. Being an ardent dog lover, he would be heartbroken when dogs were run over by speeding vehicles. To resolve this problem, he got an idea to make collars for dogs that would make them visible at night. Naidu wrote a letter to Tata with details of his business venture, as he was looking for support. Tata, a dog-lover himself, surprisingly, invited him to meet and discuss the venture. That's how Motopaws, a volunteer-run, non-profit organisation, was founded. And going back to their meeting...it turned out to be the beginning of their friendship. Naidu's compassionate and strategic thinking helped him land a job as Tata's assistant.

SPOOKY costumes, carving pumpkins, eating candies, and mixing Bloody Marys are the hallmark of Halloween, a Western harvest celebration that has gained momentum in India recently. In the last few years, Bengalureans have increasingly become fascinated with Halloween, partaking in the world of all that is dark, dangerous, and wrapped in mystique. "In the last 13 years, I have seen this kind of demand for the first time. I am attending to 300 calls a day. The major demand is for scary costumes, like skeletons, vampires, and zombies. Those are the favourite ones at the moment in the 12 to 24 age group," says Varun Bakul Shah, owner of a costume shop in Ashok Nagar.

Not just the usual scary costumes, people have also got custom-made designs, based on web series and shows, for private parties. "Money Heist and Naruto Akatsuki cloak costumes are in demand. But this year, we got special orders for Roman and Egyptian kings costumes designed with satin and loincloth," says Miheer, owner of a costume store in CBD.

Makeup artists have also been getting many requests for special Halloween makeup. For instance, Ibbu, a makeup artist, has been booked over the weekend and is packed today. "I couldn't take any more requests. The most requested styles are skulls and devil looks," says Ibbu.

Speaking of nail trends in the city, Shikha Sridhar, owner of a nail studio says, "I would say maybe neons are trending. Earlier, the traditional black and reds used to trend but now there are a lot of neon colours like fluorescent green and pink. People are getting the faces of the Nun because the sequel was recently released."

Apart from haunted house gatherings, youngsters in the city also arranged board game events. "We carried our Halloween-themed board games and some 70 people came on a one-day notice," says Rohith Dabbiru, co-founder of Victory Point Board Games, who organised one such event.

Not only youngsters, but neighbourhoods around the city have also been seeing an increase in trick-or-treat gatherings among children. "Every year, I decorate my house and we gather the neighbours and walk around the neighbourhood. We keep candy and do a small trick-or-treat with the kids, dressed in costumes. It has become a neighbourhood thing rather just inviting friends which is how it used to be a few years ago," says Karina A Shetty, a content creator.

FIT BIT

ARDHA PADMASANA VARIATION

(HALF LOTUS POSE VARIATION)

This intermediate variation of Padmasana is an ideal posture from which to practice Pranayama (breath control), Dharana (concentration) and Dhyana (meditation). This keeps the body upright for a long time, stretches and opens hips.

STEPS

- Come in Dandasana (Staff Pose) with legs straight in front of you. Keep your spine erect.
- Bring your left leg on your right thigh. Use your hands to bring your feet into position. Ultimately, the idea is to arrange the top of the left leg into your right hip crease.
- Bend your right knee so that the right shin rests on the floor in a comfortable cross-leg position.
- Raise the crown of your head towards the ceiling and roll your shoulders away from your ears to keep the spine long.
- Now keep your right palm open on your right thigh and place your left hand on the left knee, facing the fingertips to the floor. This is the 'Salute to the Buddha Mudra'.
- During the whole process, keep your face muscles relaxed and close your eyes or you can gaze at a particular point in front of you.
- Stay in the posture for about a minute or for the duration of your pranayama/meditation practice (during this, take a deep breath). Return to the staff pose and repeat the same procedure with the other leg at the top.
- Now, to get out of the pose, extend both your legs towards the ground and sit in the staff pose.
- After performing the posture with both your legs, relax for 3 to 5 minutes in Savasana (Corpse Pose).

BENEFITS

- It is considered very good for meditation and pranayama.
- This pose calms your mind and relaxes your body.
- Best for those who face difficulties (bend their legs) to perform Padmasana.
- It extends and strengthens your ankles, knees, and inner thighs.
- Maintains flexibility in your gluteal muscles, and the deep rotator muscles of your hips.
- Gives you relief from sciatica and menstrual pain.

LIMITATIONS

People who have had recent injuries to knees, ankles or hips, avoid this.

If your hips, knees or ankles are too tight or painful, your may find it difficult to cross your legs. Don't force yourself.

In case of any medical concerns, get the advice of a yoga expert.

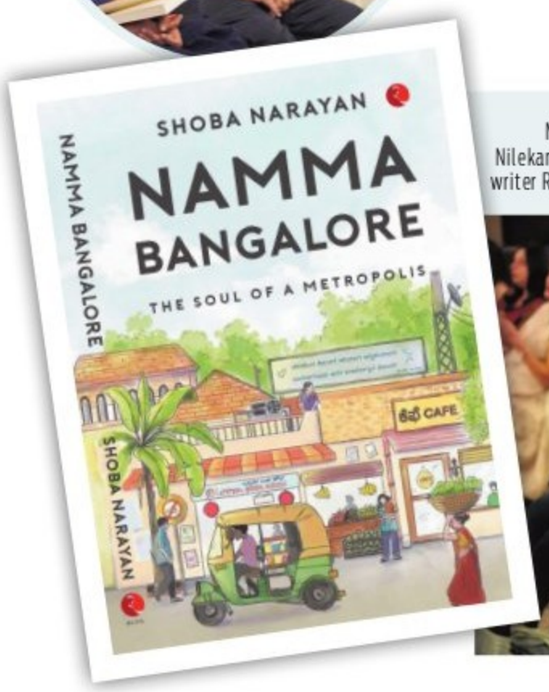
Just because we are a young city, doesn't mean we are a new city. It was surprising to me that in Indiranagar, there is an inscription which is 1,000 years old

Shoba Narayan, author

Capturing Bangalore to Bengaluru

A primer to Bengaluru, author Shoba Narayan's latest book Namma Bangalore captures the essence of a city that embraces diversity



Nandan and Rohini Nilekani (top); historian-writer Ramachandra Guha

POOJA DAS

Bangalore is a place that is hard to get away from. Most people come here and rarely leave," writes Shoba Narayan in the introduction to her sixth book, Namma Bangalore: The Soul of a Metropolis, which was recently launched among a niche crowd in Bengaluru. With all-things old Bangalore, the setting at a city hotel saw the attendance of the likes of entrepreneur Nandan and Rohini Nilekani; historian-writer Ramachandra Guha; and Consul-General of Italy in Bengaluru Alfonso Tagliaferri.

Narayan, who moved from Chennai decades ago calls Bengaluru her home today. "I moved here 18 years ago. But I only started writing this after 15 years of living here, so I would say it took me that long to understand the city. It takes a while to get a sense of the space and what makes a city tick. One has to figure out how to distil the essence of a city into a book because every city is so complex. Bengaluru, specifically, is a city of many layers," she says.

The idea of the book began about two years ago when Narayan started writing a column about Bengaluru, as a way to understand the city. "The book is divided into sections so that the reader can navigate the city with ease. The sections include the metropolis, food, drinks, art and culture, gender, neighbourhoods, and so on," she says, adding, "The hard part was converting my columns, writings of which were time-bound, into a book with a much longer view." The book tries to capture the essence of Bengaluru, which is so welcoming and warm to new people. "Bengaluru is a softer city and that is what makes us feel like we belong here. I feel it's so because it is at the crossroads of many states. There are families where the father speaks Telugu and at the same time will speak to the children in Kannada."

Recounting things that surprised her, she said that while people think Bengaluru is a very new city, there are parts that are very old. "Just because we are a young city, doesn't mean we are a new city. It was surprising to me that in Indiranagar, there is an inscription which is 1,000 years old," says Narayan.

She believes that this book would have helped her if she had it when she first came to the city. "This is a primer to Bengaluru. It's like having a friend who holds your hand and says, 'Hey, this is my city, this is what is so great about it and let me show you my city'."

I called you a homeland & forgot homelands are taken away

PIC: AFP

In the last three weeks, one has been reading, and watching with horror the genocide in Gaza after the brutal Hamas attack in south Israel on October 7 during a music festival in which thousands of Israelis and some foreigners were killed; some held hostage. Where and how they are is a nightmare not only for families but for all of us, who dread a similar fate at some point in time. The unleashing of carnage since then has been such that the blood and gore are spilling across the continents and have soaked our conscience.

I would dither from saying collective conscience because there's no letting up of bloodshed. Killing and destruction is insane but it must go on till no one is left to kill. The ceasefire will be on the rubble and stench of death and mass-scale devastation. In this holocaust, the only heroes are the doctors, medical staff, and aid workers, who are working beyond their call of duty.

Even as scenes of air strikes that end up in a huge plume of destruction and of blood of doomed civilians, the hospitals are abuzz with hope. There are doctors who are attending to the injured and maimed amid reports of acute shortage of water, medicines, aid supplies, no electricity, and no hope. Shocked and numbed, children watch the dance of death till the bombs suck their lives out in one stroke of power. Ambulances offload the injured and the dead, people mourn the lifeless bodies wrapped in shrouds. The burial grounds are full. Inside the hospital, the faceless doctors are trying their best to heal.

In the face of hopelessness, they give hope or at least the promise of it. Theirs is a unique story; of the white coats, who will not sit back; flee, or abandon the injured. What material have they been cast in? Certainly not humans because humans kill, and suck the blood of innocent people, children, to revitalise their manic desires of conquest and revenge. It was doctors and the medical staff who stood and reached out to millions across the world during the horrible pandemic years. It was them, who healed the debilitated and the ill and gave hope to us, who had cowered in terror of the killing virus.

It is them, who are standing out in the face of the looming carnage. Many of them would have faced the loss of their families and homes.

Many of them would have been killed in the process. But the more the hope sinks the more the heart beats for the medical and aid fraternity. I wish I could be them.

I wish I could save the children from death, destruction, loss, and hunger. What do children born in conflict regions know? What is their worldview? What is their perception of family? Homeland? How do they process homelessness and hopelessness? There are a million questions that sear my heart. I have answers to none. My little understanding tells me that the oppressed are vulnerable to turn oppressors because they know no other way.

This generation of children, who are suffering the bloodshed will not be 'normal.' But if they were to learn resilience, they will, from the doctors, nurses, medical and aid supply people who work beyond the 24 hour clock and their human capabilities to reach out to millions of people. If children are taught to build bridges so that they and others can cross over towards peace they will uphold hope.

Last night I read a poem by the late Palestinian poet –Mahmoud Darwish – "Out of my ignorance, I called you a homeland and I forgot homelands are taken away."

With this, I would take your leave, dear readers.

Rakshit Shetty-backed Mithya debuts at Jio MAMI Festival

The film, directed by debutant Sumanth Bhat, received a world premiere

A SHARADHAA

MITHYA, produced by Rakshit Shetty's Paramvah Pictures, is one of the 250 films making its world premiere at the Jio MAMI Mumbai Film Festival held from October 27 to November 5. This year, the festival focuses on new and contemporary voices in South cinema, and Mithya is one of the 40 films to get a world premiere. Additionally, the festival features 45 Asia Premieres and over 70 South Asia Premieres, with a record-breaking 1000+ submissions.

Sumanth Bhat, a software engineer turned filmmaker and a member of the writing team at Paramvah, has written seven episodes for the yet-to-be-released web series Ekam. Mithya marks his debut feature film. "The film is a heartfelt journey following 11-year-old Mithun as he copes with the loss of his parents, searching for stability in a new home and rekindling friendships. The passing away of the young couple in the family leaves two children orphaned, raising questions about how children cope with loss and how long it takes for their wounds to heal. Mithya aims to explore these questions," says the first-time director, who considers the film as a coming-of-age story. The cast includes Athish Shetty in the lead role, with Prakash Thuminad and Roopa Varkady in prominent roles.

Rakshit Shetty, the film's producer, emphasises the need for various films in the industry, welcoming fresh stories and new storytellers who bring unique perspectives to filmmaking. Mithya aligns with Paramvah's commitment to novel content and expanding the range of narratives.

The film features music by Midhun Mukundan, cinematography by Udit Khurana, and sound design by Shreeyank Nanjappa.

IN THE DEPTHS OF KAALA PAANI

KARTIK BHARDWAJ

THE Netflix series Kaala Paani revolves around a disease whose symptoms include dry throat and cough. A pandemic origin seemed obvious, but for series writer Biswapati Sarkar, the seed of the story was sown after a childhood trip. "I went to Andaman and Nicobar Islands as a child and was mesmerised. I mean where else would you find a place which houses mountains, jungles, beaches and even an active volcano! I started reading more about it and the concept was growing in my mind for the last 10-15 years," said Biswapati, adding that the Covid-19-induced pandemic did change his viewpoint of the story. "I think before I went through a pandemic, I looked at contagion thrillers as works of science fiction. When Covid happened, it dawned upon me that Kaala Paani had to be a human story."

What followed was multiple Zoom calls to collaborators and series directors Sameer Saxena and Amit Golani. "My initial logline was what LG Kadri's character (played by Lagaan director Ashutosh Gowariker) says in the first episode: 'We need to find a way to escape Kaala Paani.' Here was a disease and a bunch of people stuck on these islands, famous for once housing a British-era prison from which none could escape. I think that was the hook for us," says Biswapati.

The eight-part series stars Mona Singh, Amey Wagh and Sukant Goel and also marks the acting return for Ashutosh Gowariker, known for helming films like Swades and Jodhaa Akbar. In the past, the director has acted in various middle-cinema projects including Salim Langde Pe Mat Ro (1989) and Kamla Ki Maut (1989). "We wanted a unique, trustworthy face," says Sameer. "A person who looks like a leader, a problem solver. When we met Ashutosh sir and discussed the idea with him, he immediately came on board."

One can't watch the show and not draw Covid parallels. The virus seems to have seeped into the series narrative. Terms like lockdown, ground zero and containment flow around. Characters are seen crying in PPE kits as their loved ones battle the disease amid coughs and hiccups. A scene shows a bunch of funeral pyres burning. "We wanted to create more of a cautionary tale," says Biswapati. "Like what could happen if we don't respect our environment. We didn't want to trigger Covid horrors or do a commentary on the pandemic. We wanted to be respectful towards all the characters who die in the series and thus didn't show scenes of excessive blood or gore. It was more of what we are doing to the environment. We constantly told each other that nature was the real villain of the story."

A survival-drama, the series deals with themes of Darwinism, nature vs nurture and how, when cornered, humans give in to their basic instincts. This is a genre shift for creators Biswapati, Sameer and Amit, whose production company Posham Pa Pictures gave us titles like the sweet, coming-of-age film Jaadugar (2022) and the fam-com Home Shanti (2022). The writers are also known for their previous work with The Viral Fever, including Pitchers and Permanent Roommates.

"It was important for us, as storytellers, to get out of our comfort zone," says Sameer. "We wanted to try something new and when Biswa came to us with the idea, we knew this was something fresh."

It didn't come easy. First, there was the research. "I don't know how many books on Andaman and Nicobar history and geography I read," says Biswapati. "Then, since I didn't want to get swayed by the endless possibilities of fiction, I read about 120 research papers to get the epidemic in the series right. It was like reading up to write a thesis."

The writers' room was basically Biswapati, Amit and Sameer going to each other's houses, bouncing off ideas, and getting out of creative logjams over sips of chai. "The trick to get out of a block is to get yourself bored," explains Amit. "Don't distract yourself. Just sit there, stare at the screen and let yourself get bored. That's how the human mind works, if one barrier can't be broken, the floodgates open from some other side."

"And that's how we cracked the finale," adds Biswapati.

The real test began once the writing ended. Shooting in the remote islands expectedly turned out to be gruelling. "Let's just call it adventurous," jests Sameer. "The jungle bits were fine, what was really difficult was to transport the equipment to the islands. We went through everything: heat, rains, cyclones. By the end of it, I guess we all looked like Indiana Jones."

Kaala Pani, unlike the other projects usually helmed by the creators, ends on a rather bleak note. Two childhood sweethearts might never get to profess their love, a meek character transforms into a murderer, the disease might be here to stay. Are there plans to go darker? We ask. "Always open to ideas," says Sameer, smilingly.

Sicario 3 is currently in development

CE FEATURES

DENIS Villeneuve's critically acclaimed action thriller Sicario received a sequel in 2018, which was directed by screenwriter Stefano Sollima. Now, the makers have announced that they are actively developing a third film in the series.

While the original film had Benicio Del Toro, Emily Blunt, and Josh Brolin in the lead roles, the second film Day of the Soldado, did not bring back Blunt's character. However, the producers have confirmed that they are planning to bring back the trio from the original film. Molly Smith and Trent Luckinbill further confirmed that all three actors are on board with the idea of returning for the third film.

Writer-director Taylor Sheridan has written the screenplay for both the Sicario films, it is yet to be confirmed if he is also onboard the third film. While Villeneuve is currently busy making Dune: Part Two, the producers have expressed interest in bringing back to direct Sicario 3.
